All-American's Supreme Champ Faces Contest

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The great C Cathland Lilac will be back to defend her Supreme champion award at the 1990 Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show here September 24-27.

But the EX97 Holstein has no lock on the title. One dairyman who has reservations is Lilac's owner, Greg Wilcom, Ijamsville, Md, said that Mona Lisa, another Canadian cow at Gay Ridge Holsteins, "might be the best cow I'll show this year."

The EX94 Mona Lisa freshened in June, it is noted, giving her an edge in the show ring over a "stale" Lilac who will have milked 13 months when she arrives at the All-American.

"Lilac should still be milking 70 pounds," Wilcom added.

Both Lilac and Mona Lisa are big milk producers. As a five year old Lilac produced 34,990-pounds of milk, 1,680 pounds of Gary Lazarus, representing Busy Acres Farm in Whitehall, left, displays his Jan. 1990 purebred Yorkshire supreme champion boar Wednesday at the Allentown Fair. Judge James Parlett, a York County swine breeder, observed more than 300 entries for the show, making it the largest town hog show in the state.

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — The owners of the champion boar have been in the business 50 years, and can show a true winner.

Gary Lazarus, a representative of Busy Acres Farm in Whitehall, Lehigh County, brought his Jan. 1990 purebred Yorkshire boar to the Allentown Fair.

Like many of the other exhibitors, he had to withstand high temperatures and 309 other pigs — not to mention nine and a half hours of show time — before winning for his champion boar. The hog can "really wheel and can take great big strides," said James Parlett, Sr., a swine breeder from York County, judge for the show.

Lazarus's efforts paid off at the fair, the largest town fair hog show in Pennsylvania. The hog, which moments before survived a boar fight in the ring, was chosen for its freedom of movement and thickness, "a boar you really got to appreciate," said Parlett.

Week Of Wet Dampens State Plowing

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

MANCHESTER (York Co.) — After postponement due to last week's stretch of misty weather and several inches of rain, the sun finally shown on plowing rigs hitched to compete in annual state plowing contest.

Old Tyme Days in Manchester hosted the annual plowing event, rescheduled after weather delays to Saturday, August 26.

"Actually, it plowed pretty nice in spite of the damp ground," said contest chairman Bob Miller, Millersburg.

Miller finished first in the small plow competition, largest contest with five entrants. Second was Charles Noonan, representing York County, while Cumberland County's entrant, William Crain, took the third place.

Large plow division saw a runoff between two plowing contest veterans. Jay Stoner, Cumberland County, took first place in the large plow category, over Charles Hess, York County.

In the antique division, Charles Noonan, York, was named first-place winner. Jay Stoner, Cumberland, snagged the second place spot.

According to Miller, two regular competitors in the state plowoff were absent from the contest, due to their participation in the national plowing event in Madison, South Dakota. Wet weather reportedly also plagued that competition.

James Mowry, Somerset, Pennsylvania's director on the national plowing board, represented the state in the national small plow division finishing fourth in a field of nine entrants. Frank Burkhart, Lancaster, placed sixth in the large plow category. Burkart, the 1989 national winner, will compete September 21-22 in the world plowing competition in the Netherlands.

Judges for the state event were Eugene Sweigard, Northumberland ASCS, Frank Martz, retired from the Northumberland ASCS, George Hubbard, Columbia County ASCS, Stanley Weaver, vo-ag instructor at Upper Dauphin High School, Elizabethville, and Richard Pennay, secretary of the Pennsylvania state plowing contest committee and retired from the state ASCS office.

Jenell Rinehart Crowned Maryland Farm Bureau Queen

Eva Martin
Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, MD — Jenell Rinehart was crowned the 1990 Farm Bureau Queen Sunday night in the Cow Palace at the Maryland State Fair. She has spent many hours over the past years showing her registered Holsteins in the very arena in which she was crowned. Jenell accepted her crown from outgoing queen, Susan Porter of Worcester County.

Emcee Bill Clem welcomed everyone to the opening event of the Maryland State Fair. Twenty-three contestants from every walk of farm life all over the state of Maryland participated in the two-day contest. They met with judges for formal interviews and were scored 25 percent for farm, home and community responsibilities, 25 percent for general appearance, 25 percent for speaking ability and 25 percent for personality and friendliness.

Each of the county queens gave a prepared speech about their farming background, 4-H, community and other events, and county history. A fish bowl question was drawn for an impromptu answer.

Judging the contest were Mrs. Rosie Schoonmaker, vice chairperson for American Farm Bureau Women's Committee; Ms. Susan Simpson, Office of Domestic Marketing, Virginia Department of Agriculture, and executive secretary of Virginia Association of Fairs; Mr. Fred Butler, president of West Virginia Farm Bureau, president of Mid-Atlantic Division of Dairymen, Inc., and secretary-treasurer of National Milk Producers Federation.

While the judges deliberated, Grove Miller, president of the Maryland State Fair, remarked that "young people are what this fair is all about." For those asking what is wrong with our young people, he suggested they come to the fair to find out they are just great. Eddie Allen, president of Maryland Farm Bureau, invited everyone to attend the 75th annual Farm Bureau Convention in Ocean City, Maryland, in December. Music was provided by the Hit Men of Frederick, Md.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

SEPT. 3-9, 1990

Sept. 4, Full Corn Moon.

Sept 3 1783, the Treaty of Paris is signed, officially ending the Revolutionary War Sept 4, 1888 George Eastman receives a patent for the first hand-held camera, the Kodak Sept 5 1882, the first Labor Day parade takes place in New York City Sept 8, 1565, Don Pedro Menendez de Aviles establishes the first permanent European settlement in North America at St Augustine, Florida Fortune favors the brave

Ask the Old Farmer: When should I harvest my horseradish? My neighbor says early fall but my uncle says late fall or clear into winter! Who's right?

Well they're both right Your neighbor simply likes his horseradish with more bite to it! Roots dug up from late fall to early spring will be somewhat mild while those harvested from late spring to early fall will clear your sinuses!

Home Hints Use oak leaves for mulching Their bitterness deters slugs and grubs

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: Showers throughout the region, but they're heaviest in the north Then rain, locally heavy, and warmer Sunny for the weekend and even warmer

Greater New York-New Jersey: A couple of days of sunshine before the waterworks begin The rain arrives midweek, scattered showers for the weekend

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Hot with thundershowers, then clearing before the weekend but the heat wave continues Heavy rain ends the week

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Sunny with sprinkles in the east to start the week Then clear and hot Tight showers are welcome at week's end

OPINION

Egg Care

Eggs are hard to beat for easy preparation, great versatility and delicious eating. Eggs are also one of nature's most nourishing foods since they contain varying amounts of most of the nutrients both chicks and humans need.

However, the same nutrients that make eggs a high-quality food for humans can also be a good growth medium for bacteria. In addition to food, bacteria also need moisture, a favorable temperature (between 40 and 140 degrees), and time in order to multiply to large enough numbers to cause illness.

According to a new brochure published by the American Egg Board entitled "The Egg Handling and Care Guide," in areas of the country where food poisoning cases have been reported, the chances of finding an egg that has been infected with bacteria have been estimated at less than one in 10,000 to 14,000. In other areas of the country, the chances are far, far less.

Nearly all the reported cases of food poisoning associated with eggs or foods containing eggs have involved improper handling techniques used by restaurants and institutions. Individually prepared egg dishes eaten promptly are rarely a problem. By using good hygiene, refrigeration, cooking and handling practices, you can insure that your eggs will maintain their high quality and safety for use in dozens of ways!

NOW IS THE TIME

By Jay Irwin

To Mow or Not To Mow Alfalfa

The annual question comes up, should I mow alfalfa the first part of September or not. According to crop authorities it is not just a sample yes or no question. If you have left one of your cuttings go into full bloom, then you do not need to be concerned; however, if you have not, it would be best not to cut the first two weeks of September. The reason for this is, it's the period when the plants are storing food in developing rhizomes for next year's growth. It is important that a period of 45 days be allowed between the 4th and 5th cutting. It is also important on stands that have been established this year, that 45 days be allowed between the 2nd and 3rd cuttings; this will add strength to the plant and will give better winter protection.

To Check Stored Grain

Farmers should check all their stored grain at this time of year because heating of stored grain can be a symptom of insect activity or just too much moisture. In either case, the heating problem should be corrected before the grain is ruined. If grain requires pest control materials (as listed on page 24 of the 1989-90 Agronomy Guide), it should be done while the air temperature is still fairly high or above 60 degrees F. If it's moisture, then check for possible leaks in the roof. We have too much money invested in the seed, fertilizer and labor to lose it in storage.

To Check Feed Bins

We are coming into the fall season where we see considerable temperature change from day to night. This causes a lot of moisture condensation, as we see it on car windows in the morning. This same type of condensation takes place in the bulk feed bins on our farms. It causes the build-up of molds on the bins and in the feed.

When feed bins are cleaned out, they should be inspected thoroughly, right down to the boot. Also, when you are taking feed out of the bin, keep a close watch for chunks of feed; it will tell you if a problem is developing.

After cleaning out the bin, it should be sprayed with a mold inhibitor and allowed to dry. You can use calcium proportionate solution as the inhibitor, at the rate of 21 ounces per gallon of water for the spray. One of the best ways to prevent this condensation problem is to insulate the bin. The insulation will slow down the temperature fluctuation.

To Stop Feeding Trees and Shrubs

The time is here when we should not be applying any fertilizer to rose bushes, trees and shrubs. The season's growing period is about over and new growth should have a chance to harden before cold weather arrives. When we fertilize during the fall, and this year in particular with the high level of moisture, we encourage new growth, which will be tender, and will winter-kill in zero weather.

It is best to wait until early spring to apply any plant food to these types of plants. Mulching is a good practice to help conserve moisture and control weeds, but keep the fertilizer in the bag until the 1991 season.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

HIDDEN AMONG THE BAGGAGE

September 2, 1990

Background Scripture:
1 Samuel 8; 10:17-27.
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 72:1-11.

From the safety of our vantage point centuries later, we have a hard time understanding Saul. He had been annointed by the prophet Samuel to reign over Israel. Furthermore, Samuel had promised Saul that God would give him the gift of prophecy. The writer of 1 Samuel further tells us that "When he turned his back to leave Samuel, God gave him another heart and all these signs came to pass that day" (10:9). "Gave him another heart" means that God made a new man of him.

So, how then do we explain Saul's unwillingness to become the king of Israel? Why was it, when the lot fell first to his tribe, the Benjaminites, and then the family of Matrite—his family, and then himself, that he went into hiding? "Behold," came back the report, "he has hidden himself among the baggage" (10:22).

WHAT SAUL WANTED

One answer, of course, is that Saul did not feel that he was the right man for the job. He himself had first reacted with incredulity to Samuel's announcement: "Am I not a Benjaminite, from the least of the tribes of Israel? And is not my family the humblest of all the families of the tribe of Benjamin? Why then have you spoken to me in this way?" (9:21).

We can understand and appreciate his response to Samuel's first announcement of God's plan for him. But Samuel didn't stop with this announcement, he also went on to promise that God would give Saul the gift of prophecy and God made a new man of him. Surely, after these changes in his life, after seeing the lot fall specifically to him, he should have been able to overcome his doubts and responded to God's call. So why did he hide?

If Saul persisted in believing in his inadequacy after all God had done to persuade him otherwise, then it was because he continued to cling to his doubts and refused to accept the testimony of God. It took willpower and perserverance for him to hold on to his feelings of inadequacy. We must conclude that Saul persisted in thinking he wasn't up to it because he didn't want to be up to it. What may have begun as a response of humility ended up as one which was sheer arrogance. What was important to him was not what God wanted, but what he wanted or didn't want.

HUMBLE OR SELFISH?

Humility is one thing. Selfishness is something else. Our low estimates of our own self-worth are often more a matter of selfishness than humility. Actually, the point was not that Saul was a better man than he thought — although he was — but that doing the job did not depend totally upon himself and his own resources. God would make the difference — the same kind of terms he offers us!

I want you to think back to a time when you responded negatively to someone asking you to take on a responsibility that would have been beneficial for someone in need — leadership of a group, initiative in a project, commitment to a certain task. What was the reason that you gave for saying "no"? Were you being honest, or were you merely joining Saul in hiding among the baggage?

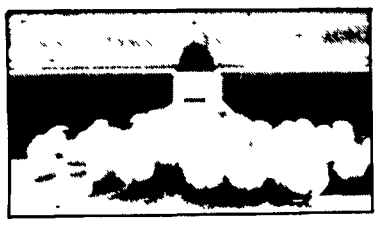
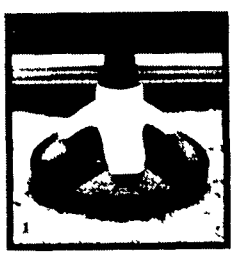
CONTRACTS AVAILABLE FOR NEW BROILER AND TURKEY HOUSES

CHORE-TIME® 's NEW H2 FEEDER IS WHAT YOU NEED

A New Way To Feed Broilers And Turkey Poults



H2 Broiler Feeder With Flood Gates Open, Fills Pan With Overflow Onto The Paper For Quick Starts With Minimum Waste.



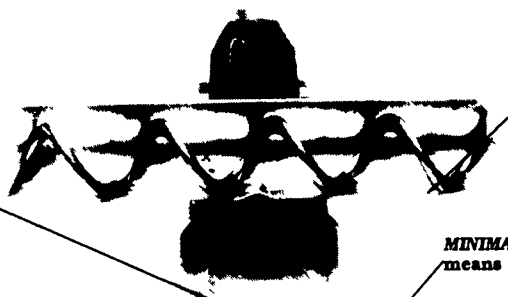
H2 Turkey Poult Feeder Has Feed Chutes To Fill Pan Without Any Spillage Onto Shavings.

Pan Hangs On Cone For Easy Cleaning.

- OUR 10-YEAR WARRANTY on the auger and 5-year warranty on the pan says it all - WE STAND BEHIND IT!
- ALL-PLASTIC FEEDER consists of 3 simple, rugged polypropylene parts for permanent corrosion-proofing. Pan easily removes for clean-out and hangs from feeder for drying and storage.

FEED WINDOW (when Feed Gate is open) automatically floods pan with feed to attract chicks from day one. Saves labor — no more hauling and scooping feed into feeder pans!

ROLL-FORMED TUBE is galvanized inside and out for rust-resistance.

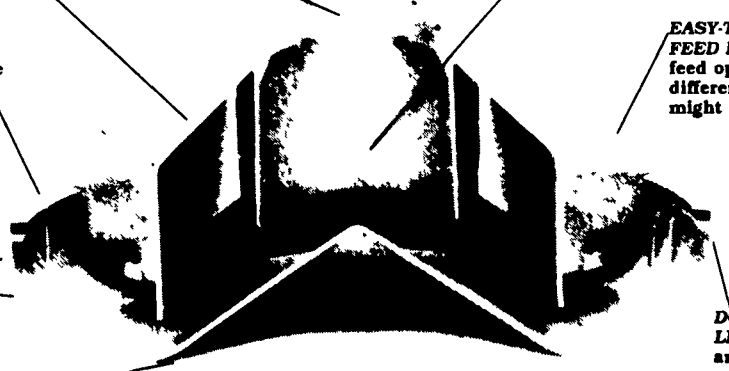


LARGE DOME discourages growing birds from getting into pan.

MINIMAL FEED STORAGE within dome means fresh feed quickly to all birds.

SELF-LEVELING PAN — a patented Chore-Time feature — cuts feed waste and bird bruising since pans can swing.

EASY-TO-ADJUST FEED LEVEL lets you set feed opening to allow for different types of feed you might decide to use.



UNIQUE PAN SHAPE and low pan height is ideal for chicks, with no grill to obstruct eating. Pan has 13-inch diameter.

BUILT-IN HIGH CONE evenly distributes feed in pan, prevents stale feed buildup in feed level tube.

DOUBLE FEED-SAVER LIP on pan limits raking and billing and helps you save every bit of precious feed.

Pennsylvania's Only Authorized Distributor Of CHORE-TIME® Poultry Feeding Systems And SWISH Watering Systems!

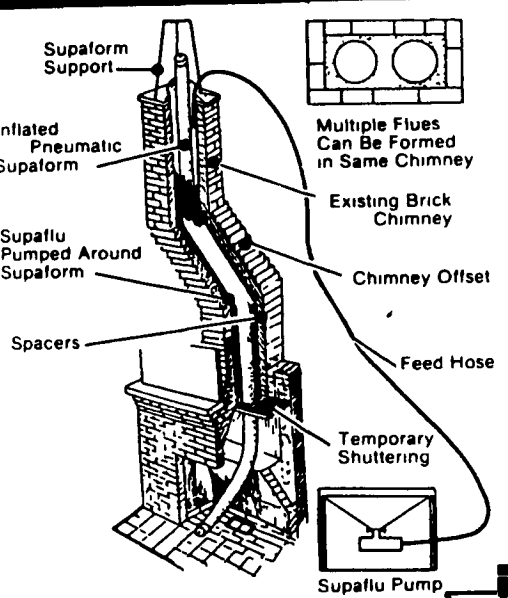
CHIMNEY PROBLEMS?



Supaflu Fights Hot Chimney Fires Before They Begin.

Creosote build-up, cracked chimney tiles, decaying mortar and hog trapped gasses. This is the way dangerous and damaging chimney fires start. A trained Supaflu chimney professional can spot these hazards in a hurry and take care of them almost as fast. A fast cast-in-place Supaflu installation makes your chimney better than new, safer than new. A smooth, strong Supaflu lined chimney fights creosote build-up and eliminates hot trapped gases, dramatically reducing chimney fire dangers.

HOW TO BE RIGHT ON THE NUMBER.

Start by planting AG658 and AG788, bred specifically for this region. Whether you're producing corn for grain or silage, they're right on the number for getting the most out of every acre.

Both of these outstanding Agway hybrids have been developed, tested and proven to perform under the demanding soil, climate and growing conditions in this area.

An acknowledged leader in seed corn research, Agway continues its efforts toward bringing you improved grain and dual-purpose silage/grain varieties that will result in more bushels per acre and more megacals of energy per ton.

Before you place your seed reservation, talk to your Agway Farm Enterprise, Reading Bone/ Agway or Andgrow salesperson. Find out which of these proven hybrids is best suited to your production requirements. It's the first step toward being right on the number.

Central Holstein Championship At Fair

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

HUNTINGDON (Huntingdon Co.) — A perfect way to round out the Huntingdon County Fair was to attend the 1990 Central PA Holstein Association's Championship Show at the Huntingdon County Fairgrounds. This warm summer evening found retired dairy farmer Paul King, formerly of York County, now from Moorefield, WV, judiciously placing over 175 registered Holsteins owned by Pennsylvania Holstein Association members or junior members. This regional show attracted 47 exhibitors, all vying for Grand Champion.

By the end of the evening, two owners with three cows swept top honors in both the open show and as junior exhibitors.

Grand Champion and Senior Champion of the open show went to Jeff Yoder of Rocky-Side Farm and his 6-years-and-over cow, Gillbrook RH Sally-ET, sire Browndale sir Christopher. Jeff also won, as a junior exhibitor, Reserve Senior Champion and Reserve Grand Champion with Rocky Side Chaplain Charmgirl, a Senior 2-year-old. The four other awards, Reserve Grand Champion and Reserve Senior Champion of the open show, and Grand Champion and Senior Champion as a Junior Exhibitor, went to Wade Burket of Burket Falls Farm with a Junior 3-year-old, Burket Falls Astro Bertie, sire Pallamar Astronaut.

Junior Champion went to owners Ida Jane Plance, LeRoy Plance, and Dana Erway of L & J Holsteins and their Junior Yearling Heifer Del-Hollow Starbuck Linda, sire Hanoverhill Starbuck.

A Senior Yearling heifer, Glove-Tun V Tab Chrisma won Reserve Junior Champion for owners Alice L. and John A. Foster Jr. of Globe-Run Farm.

Corey Will won Junior Champion by a Junior exhibitor by showing his sister Julie Will's Senior Yearling heifer C Bovino Warden Flora, sire Hilltopper Elevation Warden.

A Unique Testing Plan

FOCUS

Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association

Call 1-800-DHI-TEST for service or information

BOB ORMSBY
Training Coordinator

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)— I am constantly amazed at the decision making capacity of today's dairy farmer. You, the dairyman, make decisions about your animals every hour of the day. Cows to milk, cows to dry off, cows to breed, cows to sell, heifers to raise, heifers to breed, when to breed them, and the sires to use. There are many others concerning milking practices, treatment plans for sick animals, nutrition programs for maximum performance, and the list goes on; just with your dairy herd, not to mention all the other decisions you are faced with. All these decisions require expert judgement on your part, and it is essential that you are armed with facts to help you. The question is, how much factual information do I have, and where does it come from.

You are probably plugged into one of PA DHIA's more than 25 testing plans. You may already be utilizing one or more of the extra service options we provide. If not, ask yourself, "Can I afford not to check into what DHIA has to offer me?" One of the objectives of this weekly column is communicate with you concerning the services we provide. As a provider of information geared toward helping you make sound management decisions, we specialize in dairy herd production records, both for individual cows and herd totals. We gather raw data, digest it, and sort it into valuable information to be used by you, the decisionmaker. Because there are more than 25 testing plans available, it is imperative that we take a closer look at each one. That is what I plan to do here, and the type testing plan I will cover today is one entitled PRIME.

PRIME is the basic no-frills testing program that provides accurate, timely, and essential management information along with production records that carry the "DHIA NAME" and at a cost that gives you the most return for your dollar! One of our professionally trained DHI supervisors helps get you started, explains how to report information on the easy-to-use barnsheet and how to weigh and sample each cow's production on "test day." The supervisor is then available as a resource person to help in any way possible. The key to the PRIME program is that you, the member, collect and record the data, eliminating the on-farm supervisor wages and involvement. You would be a direct member of the State association and not subject to county association assessments, etc. If meters or other recording devices are needed, it may be necessary to rent them at a nominal fee. Sample vials and shipping cartons are obtained from the supervisor, and when the sample and barnsheets are ready, they are dropped off at one of our pickup points and taken by DHIA truck to the central milk testing lab where the samples are analyzed and the results are fed into the mainframe computer along with other data you furnish, feed fed, etc. Processed reports are printed and mailed, and usually within a few days of sampling, valuable management information is in the hands of the member.

Within the PRIME program, there are nine different options. You may choose to weigh and sample each cow's milk each month; one milking or both, or you may choose to just weigh the milk and not take samples every month for component testing, (that is called milk-only records). You may take samples each month of the year, every other month, or even just four times a year, you decide. You pay for just the animals on the sheets each time the herd processes. The finished report will contain information determined by you. Every member enrolled in PRIME will have their individual cow and herd production records kept on file at the processing center. When he chooses to "move up the ladder" into a more complex, or "official" program, the PRIME records will be transferred at no cost. In addition, there will be other options available. One advantage to moving up to an "official" type testing program is the opportunity to use young sire semen from the A.I. studs.

PRIME was primarily designed for these producers who want management records with a minimum of effort and cost. It appeals to those producers who find the full range of information services in DHIA (DHI, AM/PM, and DHIR) either too complicated or too expensive. PRIME is available across the state at a variety of costs, considering equipment needs, supervisor involvement, and the wide range of options within the program, as I mentioned. If you are interested in what this service has to offer, or if you know of a dairy producer who could use PRIME, (or any of our other programs), please contact your DHIA supervisor or region manager for details. If I can be of assistance, feel free to call the office at 1-800-DHI-TEST and ask for Bob. Next time we will take a closer look at another testing plan known as DHI- APCS.

Organic Fruit, Vegetable Farming Proves Profitable

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ROTHSVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Paul E. Breneman, a Rothsville farmer, has been using basic organic farming techniques for as long as he's owned the farm — 35 years — and has been making a good profit.

Breneman farms a total of 35 acres (12 of which he owns and the remainder he rents) on land that is rich in organic material because of its sandy loam consistency located on creek bottom land. The only fertilizer used is heat-treated leaf compost and chicken manure.

Brook Stutzman, 8, left and sister Shawna, 10, are waiting to pick this 80-pound watermelon grown on a half-acre parcel of land owned by Breneman. Special composting and chicken manure enhance the nutrients in the soil, which contribute to some good fruit yields. More than 500 melons have already been picked this year on the farm. Two years ago, Breneman sold an organically grown watermelon weighing 130 pounds and received national recognition for it. Photo by Andy Andrews.

Organic farming

"Some people believe that if everybody would go to organic farming, we wouldn't have enough food," said Breneman. "I don't agree with that. I get yields about as good as those who spray."

Breneman farms with help from his family, including his son, John, 31, and grandson Brook Stutzman, 8 and granddaughter Shawna Stutzman, 10. Together they work to fertilize the land with a combination of compost and manure. They also use a boiler/steam pan hookup to "steam" away weeds safely.

If Breneman runs into a problem with aphids or beetles, he uses an organically prepared product such as Rotenon or Pyretheum.

Breneman also irrigates the land when necessary — although a combination of the creek bottom land and a great deal of rainfall this season has produced bumper crops of many different vegetable and fruit varieties.

Breneman's success

Breneman's success with organic farming is attested to with the delivery a few weeks ago of 8 bushels of green peppers to the Shillington Produce Market. Another measure of his success is the 7,200 ears of sweet corn sold to Organic Farms, a specialty market based in Maryland.

Breneman is happy with the yields on his farm. He delivered 400 cantelopes two weeks ago to a local market. He also delivered an order for 225 Blue Bell variety of watermelon at a "real good price." Breneman sold various vegetable plants last year — half a million, all healthy, all strong — for a steep price. Another profitable order went to a New York organic market for cantelopes, watermelons, red beats, and cucumbers. And 4 bushels of lima beans sold recently at auction for a good return.

Luscious green peppers are the staple on the farm of Paul Breneman, Rothsville, who is proud of his organic farming techniques. Here, eight bushels of green peppers are being shipped to the Shillington Produce Market. Organically grown produce commands a hefty market price — about twice what other growers obtain from conventional produce auctions. Photo by Andy Andrews.

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — A gentle rain signalled the beginning of the Elizabethtown Fair Livestock Sale on August 23.

Exhibitors gave up dodging soggy mud puddles as they led sheep, swine, goats, and steers into the green and tan striped tent. Mud, rain, and dampness didn't hinder an exuberant crowd from gathering as the auctioneer conducted brisk bidding on 104 entries for swine, 64 for sheep, 7 for goats, and 3 for steers.

The supreme champion sheep owned by Lisa Reiff, Strasburg, was the first to go over the auction block. Lebanon Valley National Bank took the winning bid of $4 per pound, which translates into $460 for the sheep.

The reserve grand champion sheep owned by Mark Tracy, Elizabethtown, went for $2.85 cents per pound to Willie the Butcher.

After the 64 sheep were sold, figures compiled by Barry Hoffer of Hollinger's Accounting Service in Elizabethtown showed a combined weight of 23,784 pounds with the average price per pound at $1.41.

The Townville Champs 4-H Club of Crawford County constructed a giant ice cream sundae to serve 800 people on July 21, at Townville in conjunction with Townville Old Home Days.

Sundaes were served free of charge to the public. The giant sundae was built in a large childrens swimming pool. The ingredients included: 36 gallons of vanilla ice cream, 3 gallons of toppings, chocolate, caramel, and butterscotch, 14 pounds of peanuts, 8 pounds of whipped cream, and 1 gallon of cherries.

Lou Baxter, television newscaster from Erie served as master of ceremonies along with Alan Bly, president of the 4-H Club. Dana Slusser, Crawford County Dairy Princess, delivered a presentation to the audience on dairy foods and introduced guests. Alternate dairy princesses Kim Black and Kelly Kunz also were present.

Earlier in the day the Townville Champs won first place in the parade. The float entitled "4-Hers Beat the Heat", had a large mechanical man scooping ice cream from a giant sundae.

Both the float and sundae projects were designed and built by

State FFA Officers

Sate FFA Officers Hold Workshop

On Wednesday, July 11, 1990 the 11 state FFA officers met at University Park for a one-day workshop.

These talented individuals were elected in mid-June to represent the Pennsylvania Association of the FFA in the upcoming year at events and functions on the state and national levels.

The agenda for the workshop included speech presentations from each officer, and preparation for several upcoming events. The officers, however, devoted the majority of day attending the Pennsylvania Association's board of directors meeting which was also scheduled to take place.

Sheila Biddle Reiner, the executive secretary for the state FFA, organized and planned the activities for the meeting. Reiner will devote a large portion of her time to working with the FFA state officers in the upcoming year.

This will be no easy task as the newly elected officers will have a busy year.

IMPORTANT: Look for the "parting line" on any barn cleaner chain you buy It shows where excess metal has been trimmed off It is your assurance that the link was totally forged, not just punched out of a flat steel bar with grain flow in one direction only

You want a totally-forged link because forging changes the grain of the steel, causing it to curve in unbroken flow lines around the contours of the link, giving the link greater strength to serve you longer

Organic Fruit, Vegetable

The crop of cantelopes and watermelons Breneman grows today is better than ever, with many weighing 30-35 pounds and a few up to 100 pounds. Two years ago, Breneman sold a watermelon weighing 130 pounds and received national recognition for it.

All this was done through simple organic farming techniques. Pruning. Cultivating. Hoeing where needed. No weed killers. None of that.

25 different types

This year, Breneman will harvest about 3.5 acres of watermelon, more than an acre of cantelopes, and about another 10 or so acres of cauliflower, broccoli, radishes, tomatoes, egg plant, lima beans, cabbage, brussel sprouts, red cabbage, and sweet potatoes. In all, he grows about 25 different types of vegetables, in addition to plants (up to about a half million plants in a good year).

This past winter, Breneman applied about 300 tons of composted leaves and about 100 tons of chicken manure from a local broiler house onto his land. In February, he ran the spreader through and dumped the leaves and manure over about 8-10 acres of land he owns.

In the spring, Breneman steamed the ground, using a pan delivery hooked by hose to a boiler unit. About 75 pounds per square inch of pressure was applied for about 10 minutes to an area measuring about 7½ feet by 12 feet.

Periodically Breneman returns to the fields to cultivate and rid the weeds, if necessary, by hand. In many cases (such as with the cantelopes and watermelons), weeding isn't necessary (he applies a plastic cover at seeding).

Techniques cheaper

"Organic farming techniques are cheaper than using weed killer," he said. "Weed killer isn't cheap. A lot of people have a spray program. You spray the ground for weeds, you spray it for root worm and different things before you plant, and then you spray the corn after it comes up.

The farm harvests about 60,000-75,000 ears of corn in a year. The price for organically grown sweet corn is high — about double what regular, commercial

(Turn to Page A36)

Organic farming techniques work. Shawna Stutzman shows this smaller, energy dense plant with four huge heads of peppers, which Breneman grew organically.

Maryland Farm Bureau Queen

Jenell is the 17-year-old daughter of John and Sharon Rinehart. They live on a 400-acre dairy farm near Taneytown, Md. She said, "Since we do not have a hired man, I help wherever and whenever I am needed." She helps with milking their 150 registered Holsteins, taking care of calves, helping with record keeping and vet work. Field chores include helping to unload hay, straw and silage wagons.

In answer to her fish bowl question, "Do you think that an agriculture background has prepared you for the future," Jenell said it has given her many opportunities. "Growing up on a farm has not only given me many responsibilities, but has also taught me self discipline. My many experiences and situations have given me self confidence and poise and I feel I am well prepared for my future."

A highlight of Jenell's 4-H, FFA activities was her recent trip to Europe with the 1990 National Dairy Judging Team. She is also a winner of a National Dairy Scholarship, State record book award, grand champion egg demonstration, grand champion supreme cow at the Carroll County Fair, and grand champion 4-H cow at the District Holstein Show. Jenell holds three certificates in public speaking. She enjoys teaching other 4-H'ers dairy judging and how to give oral reasons.

Jenell will receive a $2,000 scholarship and the use of a four-door S-15 Jimmy provided by GMC Truck. First runner-up, Heather Hamm, and winner of $100, represented Montgomery County. She lives on a purebred Black Angus Beef Cattle Farm near Clarksburg, Md., Melissa Thomas, from Accident, was second runner-up, winning $75. They raise beef and sheep on their Garrett County farm. Third runner-up, Jennifer Carmean, comes from a grain and poultry farm near Snow Hill. She represented Worcester County and received $75. From Talbot County, Cynthia Satthoff was fourth runner-up, receiving $50. Grain and Poultry are raised on their farm near Easton.

Each of the 23 contestants received a gift and $50 from the Maryland State Fair.

Susan Porter crowned Jenell Rinehart as Maryland Farm Bureau Queen.

Elanco Launches BST in Mexico

INDIANAPOLIS — Following the recent approval of its BST product for use in Mexico, Elanco Products Company is immediately beginning a program of information and education on the proper use of this new management tool for improving the efficiency of dairy production.

The Elanco BST product, Optiflex, was recently approved for commercial use in Mexico by the secretary of agriculture. Elanco began its educational program on August 10 with a presentation on proper use of Optiflex to the National Holstein Association of Mexico in Mexico City. Later this fall the product will be released for initial on-farm demonstrations.

"We intend to introduce our BST product in a controlled manner," said Brendan P. Fox, DVM, Elanco vice president for animal health. "Our first step in Mexico will be education, to make sure Mexican dairy farmers know how to use Optiflex correctly to get the best results with it when they begin using it in their herds."

The BST presentation to the Mexican Holstein association was made by Angel A. Aguilar, Ph.D., a nutritionist and a member of the U.S. technical services staff of Elanco. Dr. Aguilar discussed the proper use of Optiflex and management of a dairy herd for best results with BST.

According to Dr. Aguilar, preregistration trials demonstrated that the Elanco BST product can be effective under Mexican dairy conditions, so long as cows are well managed. Milk production responses were similar to those found in the U.S., he said.

Along with Dr. Aguilar's presentation, Elanco representatives were in attendance at the Holstein meeting discussing use of Optiflex with dairy operators and providing educational materials.

The first commercial use of Optiflex in Mexico will be in a series of on-farm demonstrations. "These will provide a model for other farms to follow and will demonstrate the proper use of our BST product prior to broader availability," said James D. Robinson, international dairy marketing manager for Elanco.

"We'll discuss Optiflex and our on-farm experience with nutritionists and veterinarians so they can advise other dairy operators.

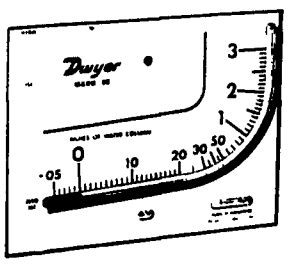
MARK II MOLDED PLASTIC AIR FILTER GAGES



Mark II Model No. 25 molded plastic manometer.

$18.95

COMPACT, ECONOMY PRICED MOLDED PLASTIC GAGES ACCURATE TO ±3% OF FULL SCALE

Dwyer Mark II molded air filter gages are of the inclined and inclined-vertical types. The curved inclined-vertical tube of the Model 25 gage provides higher ranges with more easily read increments at low readings. The Model 40 inclined gage provides linear calibration and excellent resolution throughout its range. When ordered with the Model A-606 AF Kit, the Model 40 is ideally suited for stationary air filter gage applications. The Model 25 is excellent for general purpose work and for higher anticipated filter resistances. Both gages are capable of measurements above and below atmospheric as well as differential pressure measurements.

Construction- Mark II air filter gages are economically priced, compact and available in both stationary and portable configurations. Portable stand is standard on Model 40, available as optional A-612 stand for Model 25. Construction is simple with virtually indestructible molded white styrene-acrylonitrile housing, indicating tube and fluid wells, molded ABS knobs and zero adjust plunger, shock mounted glass level vial and leak proof "O" ring seals. Moderate overpressures are accommodated by an overflow tank incorporated in the Model 25. Greater protection is provided by float operated overflow traps in the Model 40. Scales are lithograph printed on aluminum and epoxy coated.

Holstein Is Supreme At Elizabethtown Fair

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Nikelle Wivell's Holstein cow was named supreme cow at the Elizabethtown Fair last week, but from her smiles, it might as well been declared supreme of the state Farm Show.

As dairy shows go, officials said the Elizabethtown is small.

"It's the local community who shows for type and it's designed for kids more than parents," said Steve Mower, chairman of the dairy show.

A week of rain seemed to have dampened public turnout to the western Lancaster County fair, but didn't sog down enthusiasm by youth showing their cows, calves and heifers.

"I was impressed," Mower said. "I though the cow classes were good."

The three-breed show was judged by Cam Davis, Union Bridge, Md. A relatively young judge, he used to be a fulltime fitter (cattle groomer) until 4 years ago when marriage and a desire to stay at home put a stop to frequent on-the-road traveling.

Davis works on Unicorn Associates farm with 500 grade and registered Holsteins in Carrol County. They milk 150.

He rated the quality, if not the quantity of cattle shown as top shelf.

Of the three breeds of dairy cattle show, there was only one Ayrshire, shown by Elizabeth Spickler. It won both open and youth division junior champion and grand champion trophies for the breed.

The results of the other breed judgings are:

And we'll use our staff of Elanco representatives in Mexico to actively present this information." Mr. Robinson continued, "Our Elanco people in Mexico are already experienced in advising farmers on effective use of animal products and they'll be able to help the Mexican dairy industry use Optiflex properly. This educational program will assure that dairy operators get the best results."

Mr. Robinson also said that a comprehensive product use manual will provide information about the use of Optiflex and results that can be expected. "The Elanco BST manual will also give advice on how Optiflex-supplemented cows should be managed for nutrition, reproduction and other factors."

Optiflex will be available in Mexico as part of a complete system for administration, according to Mr. Robinson. This will consist of single use cartridges and a specially designed administration device to make administration easy and convenient. Elanco is introducing two sustained release formulations in Mexico, one designed for administration every 28 days, another to be given every 14 days.

Elanco also has clearances for its BST product in Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union, where Optiflex is now currently in commercial use.

markets command.

Breneman attributes his success to good land and plenty of rain. But if necessary, Breneman uses a 5-horsepower pump, which draws water from a spring. On one patch of land totaling about 2 acres, Breneman uses four sprinklers to deliver the water.

Good profit

Breneman can make a good profit from his techniques, especially in a dry season.

"That's when I used to make the most money," he said. "If you have a dry year in vegetables, that's where you make the most money. If you irrigate, you make it."

Last year, Breneman rented a non-used corner of a corn lot for $50. He planted and sold about 3,000 ears of sweet corn, in addition to spinach.

"I sold over 160 bushels of spinach off of that lot," he said. "I rented it, so it was cheaper than buying it. I don't have to pay taxes off it or anything."

Walker Visits Chester Co. Farm

OXFORD (Chester Co.)—The Chester/Delaware Farmer's Association helped sponsored U.S. Congressman Robert Walker's visit to area farms. Walker met with farmers Thursday on the lawn of Breck-A-De farm, Oxford.

On the subject of animal rights, Walker said that the proposal that animals be protected under the Bill of Rights has no chance in congress. In fact, he said it is more likely that congress will pass some protective legislation for farmers from those who come onto farms with permission.

One local citizen complained about a landfill, but Walker said it was out of his jurisdiction.

On the farm bill, one farmer thanked Walker for his support of farmers and said Pennsylvania would be in bad shape without this support because the national agricultural committee is not oriented to Pennsylvania agriculture.

Walker said the farm bill will have an effect on milk prices because of the direction to price milk on whole milk solids rather than butterfat. "This moves us toward more government participation," Walker said. "We have bills to keep government out and this will bring government right back in again."

On preserving open space with farms, Walker said if you don't understand the economics of farming and make farming profitable, you have expensive open spaces. Walker suggested two-tier pricing with use of special capital gains incentives for farms who keep the land in agriculture.

Fall Championship Show

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)— The Pennsylvania Fall Championship Show will be held Friday, September 7, at the Penn State State Ag Arena.

This year's judge, Richard Keene, from Gilbertsville, N.Y. will start the show at 9:30 a.m.

Along with selecting the winners of each class, Judge Keene will also be choosing the winner of the 1990 Keystone 3-Year-Old Futurity. This year's futurity champion will receive more than $800 in prize money.

The Junior Holstein members will receive recognition separate from the adults. Each class will have ribbons for both the junior and the open show placings. There will also be champions selected from the junior exhibitors.

All Holstein enthusiasts are welcome to come join in the excitement and see Pennsylvania's finest Holsteins compete for the top awards and All-Pennsylvania recognition.

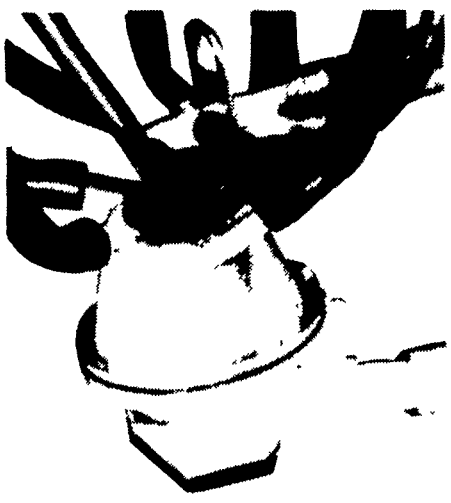
FLO-STAR™ claw

It All Adds Up



Bou-Matic Flo-Star™ Claw Equals Improved Udder Health, Milk Quality and Efficiency

+ Improved Udder Health - Flo-Star claw reduces liner slippage and helps prevent air from moving milk, which could be carrying bacteria, towards teats. Milk moves quickly from the Flo-Star claw without flooding and causing excessive fluctuation in vacuum. The results add up to less mastitis, healthier cows and greater profits.

+ More Efficient Milk Time - The Flo-Star claw moves milk quickly. Even the fastest milking cow can't flood this claw. Units stay on better and teatcups squawk less - this means you spend less time running around and more time milking your cows. The Flo-Star claw is lightweight and easy to handle.

+ Better Milk Quality -The Flo-Star claw is available with a vacuum shut-off valve. If a cow kicks her unit off, the valve closes automatically and cuts off the vacuum The automatic shut off keeps dirt, straw and other contaminants out of the milk.

Todd Bennecoff, left, displays his Jan. 1990 purebred Hampshire, which won supreme champion gilt on Wednesday at the Allentown Fair. Todd, 23, has been showing swine at fairs for about 14 years.

being a Jan. 1990 purebred Hampshire, shown by Todd Bennecoff, 23, who has been showing hogs at the fair for about 14 years.

The Hampshire gilt had a "great big step," said Parlett, and was "really thick in back throughout. The gilt has a lot of muscle. You've got to have a lot of muscle in these hogs, you've got to have a lot of volume in them. She does have a lot of volume."

Todd's wife, Cheryl, picked up FFA championship fitter at the fair. Cheryl displayed a Hampshire barrow and has been showing swine for about three years.

Parlett was impressed with the showmanship of the 4-H and FFA members. The winner of the showmanship FFA, Daniel Hartman, 21, like many other exhibitors in the showmanship and fitting contests, "paid attention to me all the time, did a real good job of showing it, putting it in the pen and so forth," said Parlett. He emphasized the importance of exhibitor eye contact and the quality of the presentation over the actual hog.

Market hog

Todd Rabenold, 15, Kutztown, picked up supreme champion market hog with "Sonny," a March 1990 Hampshire gilt.

"The pig's real lively when she comes out and she's deeper down through the chest than what the other gilt is," said Parlett. "She's a little thicker back through the rump than the other gilt."

Todd was a big winner at the show, winning also champion heavyweight pairs, medium weight market champion, and reserve champion Hampshire gilt.

In all, about 310 pigs were exhibited for a total of 1,172 animals for the fair. Originally, about 1,600 exhibits were applied for, but had to be cut, according to Sterling Ritter, fair superintendent. Last year, the show had about 357 hogs.

Following is a list of show placings.

Todd Rabenold, 15, Kutztown, right, picked up supreme champion market hog with "Sonny," his March 1990 Hampshire gilt. James Parlett, York, was the show judge.

In the individual competition Matthew Wanner edged Matthew Welk for first place, 510 to 508. Placing third was Eric Stine, Centre County, with David Lentz, Lebanon County, ranking fourth. These four contestants will be eligible to represent Pennsylvania in the National 4-H Dairy Judging Contest in Madison, Wisconsin. Placing fifth through tenth were Miriam Kelly, Blair; Todd Biddle, Centre; Melissa Morrow, Blair; Joe Stitt, Blair; Jenny Dickey, Crawford; and Angela Lang, York.

In oral reasons, Lancaster County placed first, followed closely by the Blair and Lebanon teams. Individually, Wanner was high in oral reasons with 143 out of a possible 150 points. Placing second through fifth in reasons were David Lentz, Terry Hill, Lebanon, Eric Stine, and Miriam Kelly. Dairy Bowl Somerset County's 4-H Dairy Bowl team swept to the top over 18 other teams in this year's Achievement Days contest. Grange Submits Testimony On Wetland Regulations

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania State Grange, which represents about 40,000 rural Pennsylvanians, recently submitted written testimony to the state Environmental Quality Board concerning the proposed DER wetland regulations.

"While Grange members see the need to protect our environment, we believe that the Department of Environmental Resources' proposed wetlands regulations could adversely effect normal agricultural practices," said Brenda Shambaugh, legislative director of the Pennsylvania State Grange.

The Grange recommended several changes in the regulations to the Environmental Quality Board to alleviate some of the potential problems without compromising wetland preservation.

The Grange believes that there should be a total permit exemption for agricultural practices on land with any historical agricultural use. This exemption should include all agricultural practices including field drainage systems and crop production that follows an approved conservation plan. Also, the Grange does not believe a 300-foot buffer zone is necessary for farming areas.

"It is our understanding that wetlands regulations were not intended to disrupt agricultural practices," Mrs. Shambaugh says. "Farming is not only a job, it is a way of life for many Pennsylvanians who are stewards of the land. To limit a farmer's livelihood by not allowing them to farm land would have disastrous financial effects."

Mrs. Shambaugh explained that a major complaint among our membership stems from miscommunication and confusion. "We encourage DER to work with the EPA and the Army Corp. of Engineers to administer their permit program. We feel that DER should follow the same "wetlands" definition as federal agencies to assure greater coordination and consistency."

In addition, the Grange contends that "general permits" should be available for projects affecting less than 10 acres of wetland and larger project permits should be issued in a timely manner not to exceed 120 days from application.

"The importance of a healthy agricultural economic base in our state is crucial," Mrs. Shambaugh said. "As our number one industry, we cannot afford to gravely hinder agricultural operations."

Cargill Tests Corn Silage Samples For Farmers

Cargill Hybrid Seeds held what was billed as Burn-Down Days at three locations this week. Jean Kayser, territory manager said the special event was to help farmers determine when their corn was mature enough to harvest for silage. At the Quarryville location, Kayser and Roy and Lillian Shull, Bucks County farmers, watch John Schwartz running the chopper to get a sample of green corn.

John Hubers and Rich Keener microwave the green corn sample to test moisture. Most of the samples taken on Wednesday were showing that farmers should be ready to fill their silos in the next few days.

Supreme Champ

butterfat and 1,164 pounds of protein in 350 days. Her six year old record is well over 30,000 pounds and she's still milking.

Mona Lisa is no slouch in the milking parlor, either. She pumped out 30,838 pounds milk and 1,388 butterfat over 340 days as a three year old.

Both also were voted unanimous All-Americans by the Holstein breed in 1989. Lilac as a six year old, Mona Lisa as a four year old.

The 24-year-old Maryland farm lad owns the defending PA All-American champ with his grandfather Charles Burrier and cousin Michael Pue III.

Only 18 Holsteins in the history of the breed have ever been classified 97, Greg has been told. None have scored higher. The giant white cow stands 61 inches, weighs over a ton.

But to win the Supreme contest, Lilac and Mona Lisa must first win the Holstein grand championship at the PA All-American. And that won't be any cakewalk, Greg is the first to admit.

Big faceoff of six breed grand champions for the Supreme title will be held late Thursday afternoon, Sept. 27, in the Farm Show's Large Arena.

Young Wilcom has been well doctrinated in the Holstein business. His dad, Don, was born on the home farm and has always had purebred Holsteins, Greg says. Herd average on 119 head this summer was 19,650 pounds milk, 753 pounds fat.

Don, Greg and brother Danny handle all field work and chores on the 500 acre operation. It's just 20 minutes from Washington, DC.

Greg caught super cow fever as a 14 year old when he was brought to the Pennsylvania All-American by the famed Kingstead Farm located "right over the hill." Besides Lilac and Mona Lisa, Greg today owns show cows with several partners.

30 YEARS AGO
THIS WEEK

-Lancaster County's 4-H dairy club showmen walked away from the judging tent with one Grand Championship rosette, one reserve champion ribbon and an unprecedented triple win in the county group division.

Marilyn Harnish, Quarryville R2, won her third Ayrshire grand championship in district competition at the Guernsey sales pavilion on Thursday as the judge gave her Glenhurst Dixie Blossom the nod over the entry of Marilyn's cousin, Edward Harnish, who won the rosette last year.

-James Huber, Lancaster R7, this week was the recipient of the first annual Kunzler and Company agriculture Scholarship.

James, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross N. Huber, will use the first year's payment toward tuition in the pre-veterinary course at the Pennsylvania State University.

The scholarship fund, set up by the Lancaster meat firm, will furnish $500 annually to be used by a Lancaster County Future Farmer toward tuition in the agriculture school at Penn State University.

-Tomato stalks 12 feet high with tomatoes 13-15 inches in circumference weighing 1½ to 2 pounds are strictly a novelty to most of us, but to Sam Campbell of Millersville these dimensions have become commonplace.

Campbell, working with two varieties of staked tomatoes in his back yard, has had stalks over 12 feet tall for the past several years.

"The secret of big tomatoes here is TLC (tender loving care)," Campbell says with pride.

-Lois Ann Overgaard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Overgaard, Lancaster R4, was the only Lancaster County entry to place in the top ten in the 4-H district dress review held Wednesday in Lyte Auditorium on the campus of Millersville State College.

A Lehigh County teenager, Carol Litzenberger of Germansville R1, won the 16 county event by modeling her pretty pink party dress. Miss Overgaard tied for seventh place in the competition.

Representing Lancaster County in the contest, besides Miss Overgaard, were her twin sisters, Ellen and Esther Overgaard, all of Lancaster R4; Mary Jane Herr, Refton, and Barbara Gamble, Columbia R2.

The top winner will compete with three other district winners for the state title. The state winner will go to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago, IL, in November.

Lois Ann Overgaard modeled her sports-dressy outfit which won her the county senior title. It consists of two skirts, a plaid one and a plain brown one, a reversible jacket plaid on one side, a blue sleeveless blouse and a white long sleeve blouse and a white, long sleeve blouse with six rows of lace down the front.

Majesty And Mystery At Lilypons Water Gardens

SHARON B. SCHUSTER
Maryland Correspondent

LILYPONS, MD — The story unfolds like a fairytale, with all the majesty and mystery of a night — blooming tropical water lily. It was in 1936 that Miss Lily Pons of the Metropolitan Opera Company visited the water gardens of Three Springs Fisheries near Buckeystown, Maryland, founded by entrepreneur George Leciester Thomas in 1917.

The legendary Miss Pons flitted onto the scene like a butterfly to light momentarily upon the lily-covered waters. A crowd of about 3,000 rimmed the perimeter of one of Three Springs' 500 ponds to watch the opera star dangle her fingers over the side of a rowboat, teasing the exotic Koi that swam under the lily pads.

Said to be a publicity stunt to bring attention to the soprano's career, the water gardens, from that day, became known as Lilypons Water Gardens. "The pun was irresistible," said Virginia Thomas Crum, great-granddaughter of the founder of "the largest supplier of water lilies in the free world."

Relating the story as her grandmother told it to her, Virginia said the start of Lilypons was "legendary." she said her great-grandfather had developed a thriving goldfish business with water lilies as an aside. The business grew to such an extent that in 1935, Lilypons opened its own post office and officially became a town.

Lilypons, located on the banks of the Monocacy River in Frederick County, Maryland, is one of the largest suppliers of lilies in the free world.

Approximately 100 acres of production ponds are filled with aquatic plants such as lilies, lotus, and bog plants.

Ernest Page, fish facility manager at Lilypons, has worked there for 60 years. The small Koi eat out of his hand. Page said that he doesn't eat fish any more.

Lilypons lies like an exotic island paradise on the banks of the Monocacy River and is surrounded by the fertile fields of dairy farms in nearby Buckeystown. The area has a fair amount of lime deposit, with a lime kiln just a mile away from the water gardens. Virginia explained that the rich soil is "extremely good for goldfish, especially for their color."

"Lilies always were the aside" said Virginia of her family's business, "until about 1978." At that time her father, Charles Thomas, whom she identified as "the most progressive aquatic nurseryman alive today," increased the emphasis on water lily propagation. "He was very interested in it, and he has turned the business into what it is today," she added.

And what it is today is 274 acres of ponds, canals and bogs, originally excavated by hand and with horse drawn implements, that produce enough varieties of aquatic plants to fill a 100-page catalog. Lilypons fills the orders of loyal visitors to "the fish house," and mail order customers from all over the world.

Water lilies come in a full spectrum of colors ranging from white to pink, and from yellow to blue, with foliage that is identified as 'mottled,' 'speckled,' or with a 'bronze cast.' And, water lilies come in day-blooming varieties (not to be confused with the day lily that thrives along dusty country lanes), and night-blooming varieties.

Day bloomers "awaken each morning and go to sleep in the late afternoon," according to one of the glossy, color-illustrated catalogs designed by Virginia and artistic director, Sally Thomas, her mother. "Hardy lilies," such as the exquisite white "Virginia," named for Charles Thomas' mother, the golden "Sunrise," and the radiant red "Flammea," are available from April through September.

The tropical day-bloomers, such as the "Yellow Dazzler," and the blue "Charles Thomas," named in honor of the current owner of Lilypons, are available from June through September. And, the lotus is another aquatic plant that thrusts its stems 2 to 5 feet out of the water. Its blossoms emit a "heady fragrance" that is "intoxicating." A Lotus Festival is held in mid-July each year.

But, it is the luminesence of the night-blooming tropical lilies that attracts the eye of the catalog shopper. the night bloomers start to open their colorful petals at dusk, and emit their special radiance under moonlight, well into the following morning.

"A lot of people like to get one of each," said Virginia, "so they have something blooming all the time." Virginia said the fragrance of the tropicals is "an amazing scent. If the breeze is blowing your way, it's a beautiful fragrance."

The most popular lily is the "Hardy pink." Virginia suggested that its popularity may be linked with the famous Monet painting which is spattered with their likeness. Lilies also come in a variety of sizes from the 2- to 3-feet spanse of the "pygmy," to the sprawling "Victoria," whose pads alone may measure 4 feet around. Prices of lilies start at $19.95, with the most expensive lily in the catalog priced at $75. The medium price for lilies at Lilypons is about $35.

Virginia said water lilies are "very tough." Some varieties may even take over an earth bottom pond. She recommended the hybrid varieties for such areas.

Planting a water lily that has been freshly harvested by a wader at Lilypons is a fairly simple task; perhaps one that is best suited for a hot, sticky, summer day. In an earth bottom pond, such as the typical farm pond, Virginia recommended, "go in barefoot or in hip waders; push the plant into the ground. The mud will almost suck the plant in," she explained. "Make sure the crown of the plant is not under the mud." She recommended 6 to 10 square feet of pond surface for each plant, with at least 30 percent of the pond remaining free and open.

For those who have something smaller than a farm pond in mind, Lilypons simplifies the chore of excavating and designing. The catalog outlines step by step illustrated directions for installing a pool liner or one of 11 preformed fiberglas pools, from the 67-gallon 'Tear drop' to the 550-gallon 'Lagoon.'

Waterscaping can still be achieved without the excavation of a pond. No need to fear that swampy area just back of the springhouse anymore. Why not plant a bog garden? Poorly drained soils that stay wet all year are described as 'ideal' for planting cattails, water poppies, the flowering arrowhead, spider lilies, lizard's tail, and iris, the "royalty of the bog."

Cultivating water lilies is a favorite hobby with many, including one of Lilypons' most notable customers, then Vice President George Bush. Lilypons is the place to become initiated into the fascinating world of water gardening.

Whatever the choice for waterscaping, Lilypons offers many items to add a special touch to a water garden. Virginia said that most people with lily ponds have a spray or waterfall which adds not only an element of beauty, but also serves to aerate the water. Aeration is particularly important when the pond is stocked with goldfish or Koi.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

In the unusual calmness of this particular mid-morning, all is quiet in the meadow.

No breeze has stirred to disperse the persistent misty haze of humid, late summer. The few bred heifers visible on the pasture hillside beyond the fencerow graze in companionable silence. And the waters of the pond lie flat, textured only along the edges where thriving acquatic plants poke snippets of needle-like foliage above the surface.

Our eyes frequently scan the meadow and the pond, ever watchful for a return of three particular feathered friends. The pair of Canada geese that took up residence in the makeshift nest we built mid-pond, and the gosling they raised, departed more than a month ago.

That nesting pair and their fiercely-guarded hatchling were a first for our pond, and we felt as protective for them as they did for their baby. The fluffy brown infant (he? she?) spent much of its waking hours feeding, with head submerged in the waters' edge or grazing tender grass shoots along the bank. In a short two months, it grew to almost full size and coloration, distinguishable from the parents only by a slightly smaller stature.

Late July, we realized that the trio had simply vanished, and the chance to perhaps see a young gosling learn to fly was not to be this time. In our absence of a few days, two geese did return on one occasion. Another time, our son counted a flock of 20 briefly paying a visit to the pond.

We do miss their semi-friendly presence, and hope for a return visit next season.

Yet, in their absence, other waterbirds have suddenly begun paying visits. Now we welcome back "fishermen" which the geese, in their fierce protectiveness, probably patrolled off the place, as they did to the gentle mallard ducks.

Our old friend, the great blue heron, once again hunts from the pond's edge. On skinny, stilted legs he stands on the low bank, rarely blinking an eye while watching for a hapless tadpole or minnow to wiggle through the underwater foliage.

More unusual is the great egret that recently claimed fishing rights to the same territory. Of similar size to the great blue, this beautiful white heron means business when he flaps in on those widespread wings.

Entertainment during our Sunday lunch at the backporch picnic table was an egret fishing demonstration. This bird not only stalks pondside, it casually marched up onto the pier and strolled to the edge, apparently for a better angle of visibility. Suddenly taking a nose dive into the shallow waters, the egret came up with a catch, tilted its long yellow beak skyward, and swallowed the tidbit whole. Then, with wings slightly spread, this graceful bird shook its feathers dry, like a dog shakes water from its coat.

The great blue, which had been there first, tolerated the skilled intruder for a bit, then huffed off like a gray shadow, gliding down through the meadow to some fishing spot with more solitude.

And, watching all this from a handy perch on the round bale wagon was our resident green heron, still sporting spotted juvenile plumage but already skilled at food-snagging. The green seems to prefer the smaller pond just below the house for his buffets, where a wind-tumbled maple provides handy perches and cattails offer plentiful cover.

This little heron is more people-tolerant than the standoffish big ones, even perching occasionally on the power line between the house and the barn. His habit of tucking his slender neck down into his chest feathers gives the green a stumpy silhouette. First time I spied him there, I thought it was a crow — until his head turned and showed that long, prominent bill.

Nor does he sound like a crow. His short, rasping call is more reminiscent of something with a serious case of sore throat.

So while we miss the geese, it's enjoyable to have in their place such fascinating feathered substitutes.

Water Gardens

and colors, are available at Lilypons. Starting at $1.95 for a 2- to 3-inch "Comet," to $75 for an imperial shimmery gold 10- to 12-inch Koi, Lilypons offers one free fish of the same size and variety with each pair the customer purchases and picks up at the sales office (exhibit and champion Koi excluded).

Koi are very popular. "The definition of their color is what makes them so valuable," said Virginia. She explained that Koi are intelligent fish that can be trained to respond to a whistle, and eat out of the hand. "People become fanatical about them," she said. "Some of the fish are fine enough that we price them individually."

During the annual Koi Festival, September 8 and 9, the Mid-Atlantic Koi Club will exhibit four sizes of the colorful fish from 10 inches to the "big two footers." A new category in Koi judging this year includes "the ugliest fish." Music, kite competitions, and children's activities round out the two-day event.

As an added dimension to the water garden, Lilypons suggests that fountains, sculpture, waterfalls, and statuary create "melodic sounds and fascinating patterns made by spilling water." Statuary displays range from 4-inch frogs to almost lifesize nymph-like children who are poised to frolick in the spray of a fountain.

On a hot August day, the trickle of water "makes it seem a little cooler," Charles Thomas said.

Finally, there is a variety of scavengers from which to choose.

Lilypons is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., seven days from March through October. The Water Gardens are located at 6800 Lilypons Road, Lilypons, Maryland 21717-0010. The telephone number is (301) 874-5133.

How To Create Flower Arrangements

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Have you ever wondered how they make those beautiful flower arrangements you've seen at weddings and other functions? You might be surprised to discover how easy it is to create those, and many other attractive flower arrangements from your own garden.

A well-made flower arrangement has three kinds of material: linear, branching, and solid. The linear piece of the arrangement is tall and slender; found in the shapes of spires or spikes. Branching materials give the arrangement a feeling of depth, while solid materials expand the arrangement.

FLOWER ARRANGEMENT, a non-credit course offered by The Pennsylvania State University's College of Agriculture, teaches the avid flower lover how to transform a simple bundle of lfowers into a work of art.

This course was written by Dr. Peter B. Pfahl, associate professor emeritus of floriculture, who taught flower arrangement and floral design for over 40 years.

Dr. Pfahl teaches that a flower arrangement is an expression of one's own creative art. He gives illustrations of how design, scale, balance, line, and form are used in every arrangement.

If you would like to learn how to beautify your home or office with original floral designs send $16 to: Flower Arrangement, Agriculture Course #116, 128 AG-Mitchell Bldg., University Park, PA 16802. Make checks payable to The Pennsylvania State University.

New Epidemic

Melanoma: A new epidemic especially related to summertume— Increasing numbers of persons are getting melanoma, a cancer of pigmented skin cells. For 1990, it is estimated that for the U.S. over 27,000 persons will develop melanoma and 6,300 will die from it, reports the Harvard Medical School Health Letter (June '90). The chance of Americans developing this cancer has increased from 1 in 1500 in the 30's to 1 in 120 todav

Research indicates that the major risk factors were traceable to childhood and adolescence-blistering from sunburns (three or more before the age of 20 increases risk to four to five times that of persons without blistering sunburns); getting a tan only with difficulty, and being taken to warm, sunny places for extended vacations. Working outdoors for three or more years as a teenager triples the risk.

What to Do? — Appropriate use of sunscreens (PF at least 15), reducing exposure to sun at its peak (11 a.m. to 2 p.m.) through use of hats, and the practice of self-exams, especially for those at high risk, all can aid.

1 cup chicken broth
1 cup milk
4 eggs
¼ cup butter, melted
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
Onion or parsley, optional

Pour over chicken and bread. Cover with velveeta or American cheese. Pour on one can of cream soup such as mushroom, celery or chicken. Top with bread or cracker crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees for ½ hour or until bubbly.

BRAZILIAN CHICKEN

4 broiler-fryer chicken breast halves
1 lemon, cut in half
¼ cup olive oil
1 onion, cut in chunks
1 green pepper, cut in chunks
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons chopped cilantro
¾ cup chicken broth, warmed
½ cup dry white wine
1 can (20 ounces) pineapple chunks, drained
2 firm bananas, cut in chunks
2 salad tomatoes, cut in wedges

Squeeze lemon juice over chicken and let set while oil heats. In large Dutch oven, place olive oil and heat over medium high temperature. Add chicken, skin side down, and cook until brown, about 6 minutes. Turn chicken and reduce heat to medium. Place onion and green pepper on top of chicken; cook about 10 minutes longer. Place chicken on top of vegetables, sprinkle with salt, pepper, and cilantro. Pour chicken broth and wine over all and simmer, uncovered, about 10 minutes. Add pineapple, bananas and tomatoes; heat through about 5 minutes. Serve hot with rice. Serves 4.

STIR-FRIED CHICKEN AND BROCCOLI

8 broiler-fryer chicken thighs, boned
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons peanut oil
1 bunch fresh broccoli, sliced thin, crosswise
1 cup sliced green onion, white and green parts included
¾ cup plus 2 tablespoons chicken broth, divided
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
Whole wheat croutons*

Chop chicken into bite-size pieces. Sprinkle ginger and pepper over chicken. In large frypan or wok, pour oil and heat to high temperature. Add chicken and stir-fry 3 minutes or until brown. Push chicken to side and add broccoli and onion. Stir fry 3 minutes more. Mix together ¾ cup broth, salt and sugar and stir into frypan. Reduce heat to medium high, cover and cook 2 minutes. Add cornstarch to remaining 2 tablespoons chicken broth and stir until smooth. Stir into frypan and cook for 1 minute; remove from heat. Stir in Parmesan cheese; sprinkle with whole wheat croutons. Serves 8.

*Whole wheat Croutons: Cut 4 slices whole wheat bread into 1-inch cubes. Mix together bread cubes, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley and ½ teaspoon garlic salt. Spread one layer deep, and toast in 300 degree oven for about 20 minutes or until crisp.

OVEN BARBEQUED CHICKEN

1 chicken, cut in pieces
3 tablespoons butter
¾ cup chopped onion
¾ cup catsup
¾ cup water
⅓ cup vinegar or lemon juice
3 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons Worchestershire sauce
2 tablespoons dry mustard (dissolved in small amount of liquid)
1 teaspoon pepper

Salt the chicken. Saute onions in saucepan in butter; add other ingredients; cook 15 minutes. Dip chicken in sauce and place in casserole so pieces are not crowded. Pour the sauce over the chicken. Bake in oven at 350 degrees for 1½ hours, basting with sauce every 20 to 30 minutes.

DEEP-FRIED CHICKEN WINGS WITH SESAME SAUCE

4 pounds chicken wings, tips removed and reserved for another use such as soup
2 eggs, lightly beaten
½ to ¾ cup water chestnut powder (available in Oriental groceries) or potato starch or cornstarch
Oil for deep-frying, preheated to 370 degrees
Sesame Sauce:
4 tablespoons sesame paste
1½ tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons soy sauce

Combine the ingredients and divide among four small serving dishes. Dry wings well. Dip each wing in egg, draining off excess, then coat with starch, shaking off excess. Deep-fry, turning once, about 3 minutes in all. The cooking heat of the oil should remain at 360 to 365 degrees. Transfer fried wings to paper towels.

Just before serving refry a couple of minutes on each side until crisp and golden. Dry once more on paper towels. Serve hot with sesame sauce on the side. The sauce is used as a dip. This recipe is equally good as an appetizer or a main dish. Makes four main-dish servings or eight or more appetizer servings.

By reading "The Essential Cook", a 530-page book that instructs you in clear, practical language all you need to know about old and new basics in cooking.

The book covers basics of preparing a meal beginning with planning a menu, selecting ingredients, storing, preparing, combining, seasoning, to serving meals attractively, setting a table properly, and cleaning up.

Even if you are an experienced cook, you are sure to learn something from the book. If you ever wondered how to cook a roux, how to flambe foods, prepare a vinaigrette dressing or open a shellfish, the book explains and illustrates the steps.

Order "The Essential Cook" from your local bookstore or by ordering directly from Hill House by calling 1 800-826-8899.

Although the book devotes several pages to explaining vinaigrette dressings, a basic recipe that readers can adapt for their own tastes follows:

Stir in melted butter and combine thoroughly. Beat the egg whites until stiff; carefully fold into batter. Let mixture stand in a warm place about 45 minutes or until mixture doubles in bulk. ANSWER — Margaret Greiff, Sidman, wanted a recipe for Russian torte. Thanks to Verna Guzel of Canonsburg for the following recipe.

Russian Torte

4 cups ground nuts
1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons cinnamon.

Combine nuts, sugar, cinnamon and mix well. Measure ½ cup of mixture and set aside for topping.

3 sticks butter
4 egg yolks
¼ cup milk
¼ cup warm water
1 package dry yeast
2 cans apricot filling
2 egg whites for topping
2 tablespoons sugar for topping

Combine yeast with water and set aside. Sift flour into a bowl; add butter and blend until meaty texture; add slightly beaten egg yolks, milk, and yeast mixture. Blend and stir batter until it pulls away from sides of bowl. Place on a floured board and knead for a few minutes. Divide and cut dough into three sections. Roll the first section of dough to measure 15x10-inches, which should be the size of pan used. Lightly grease the pan and place first layer of dough in it. Work edges up side of pan to form a wall for lining. Spread nut mixture evenly over the dough. Roll the second part of dough the same measurements and place over nuts. Spread apricot filling over this dough. Roll remaining dough and spread over apricots. Bake in 350 degree oven for 45 minutes. Ten minutes before baking time is over, beat egg whites and sugar until stiff. Check the torte. If it is done, remove from oven and spread egg whites over hot torte evenly. Sprinkle with remaining ½ cup nuts over egg whites and return to oven for 10 more minutes. When done to a toasty color, remove from oven and while hot, cut into diamond-shaped pieces.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

This will be my last account of our trip to the Scandinavian countries of Denmark, Sweden and Norway.

At one of our ten hotels, our wakeup call was a rooster crowing on the telephone — it surprised us. Our breakfasts were huge and included three kinds of eggs, six kinds of cold meats, four kinds of cheeses, three kinds of breads, three kinds of jams, four kinds of juices plus coffee, tea, milk and sweet buns.

Some days we spent 10 hours driving in the bus on the "roof of Norway." We saw small cabins that could be used for $10 per night by hikers and they were supplied with food. There were glaciers and snow high in the mountains.

In Norway the people are given four weeks vacation and they travel to warm countries like Italy as they have six feet of snow between October and May. I noticed that their barnhills are open underneath so they can drive through or store things there.

Our last stop was Oslo which is their biggest port and it was founded in 1048. Everyone on our tour went their own way for the evening meal. We stopped at a Chinese restaurant where meals cost 127 crowns or about $20.

The next day we visited a large park where 150 groups of bronze and granite statues were displayed in a manner that told the story of life. Gustav Vigeland is a famous Norwegian sculptor. Our next stop was at an exhibition of Viking ships. Here we saw near-perfect remains of ships that were buried for nearly 1000 years in red clay. One was buried with the Queen, her servant, and many items which they felt she would need in a future life.

At another place we saw a fragile looking balsa raft "Kon Tiki" which crossed the Pacific Ocean in 1970 in search of the origins of the Polynesian people. It did not seem possible that such an open, light raft could stand the ocean's storms.

The last day we got up at 4:45 a.m. to prepare for our flight home. It was a shock to be frisked at Heathrow Airport in London. I must have looked suspicious. We arrived home in a white stretch limousine which was waiting for us in New York. It was a long trip!

Endangered Bald Eagles Soar Toward Success

By Mercer Cross
National Geographic
News Service

OLD FIELDS, W.Va. — The bald eagle in flight is a riveting spectacle, its white head and white tail feathers contrasting starkly with its dark-brown 6-foot wings as it soars high above the South Branch of the Potomac River.

In its nearby nest in a tall white pine, one of two known eagle nests in West Virginia, two fledgling chicks wait to be fed, perhaps with a fish the hunting parent finds along the river bank.

"No matter if it's the first or the 250-thousandth eagle you see, it does something to you inside," says Terry Ingram of Apple River, Ill., who may have counted more eagles than any other American. "It mesmerizes you."

In Nampa, Idaho, ornithologist Tom Cade stands in a field and peers through binoculars at a peregrine falcon nesting atop a 150-foot sugar-storage elevator.

Cade, through his Peregrine Fund, has led the way in bringing back from near extinction the streamlined killer, capable of knocking other birds out of the sky in 200-mile-an-hour dives.

Bald eagles and peregrines have three things in common: Both are birds of prey, or raptors. Both are on the federal endangered-species list. And both are making a dramatic comeback.

Neither has attracted as much attention lately as has a fellow raptor, the spotted owl, the focal point of the controversy over logging practices in the Pacific Northwest.

But birds of prey inevitably attract some attention. Worldwide, they comprise 288 species. They include eagles, hawks, owls, and falcons. They are graceful fliers, efficient hunters, energetic cleanup crews of rodents and carrion.

They are creatures of romance and mystery, engendering human fascination. Occasionally they engender outright dislike, as when they kill chickens or small pets. This sometimes results in their deaths by shooting or poisoning, despite educational campaigns and federal protection.

In the United States, the bald eagle flies in a league of its own. It has been the national symbol since 1782.

Daniel L. James, who oversees the endangered-raptors program for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, points to the bald eagle's "exciting increase."

In the nation's early years, before white settlers' westward expansion, between 25,000 and 100,000 eagles flew unchallenged. As European civilization spread, eagles gradually declined. By 1963, under the onslaught of the insecticide DDT, the decline had become catastrophic. Only 400 nesting pairs remained in the entire United States.

DDT was banned in 1972. Since then, bald eagles have gradually recovered. By 1989, according to Fish and Wildlife Service estimates, 2,660 pairs of bald eagles were nesting in the United States.

This recovery has led the service to consider reducing the eagle's classification from endangered to threatened, a proposal that quickly generated opposition.

Among those who object to reclassification is Edward E. Clark Jr., president of the Wildlife Center of Virginia.

"The proposed reclassification plays politics with the most treasured wild animal in our society," Clark wrote James. Citing a 40 percent breeding failure among bald eagles on Chesapeake Bay in 1989, he also warned of new, dangerous pesticides. "Until such known threats which can be removed are removed, the eagle must not be reclassified."

Arguing the other way is Terry McEneaney, an ornithologist at Yellowstone National Park, Wyo., home of 14 nesting pairs of bald eagles. Other specific laws besides the Endangered Species Act protect the eagle, and McEneaney would like to see reclassification so that more money could be spent on less-known raptor species.

But veterinarian Patrick Redig, founder of the Raptor Research and Rehabilitation Program in St. Paul, Minn., has doubts about bald eagles despite the current successes.

"There's a lot of pressure on them," he tells National Geographic. "We're on kind of a plateau right now. But the future of the bald eagle is not guaranteed."

DDT was the nemesis of the peregrine falcon, too. The bird disappeared in the eastern United States, and only 10 percent survived in the West. Tom Cade, then an ornithology professor at Cornell University, founded the Peregrine Fund in 1970. He now lives in Boise, Idaho, where the fund has operated the World Center for Birds of Prey since 1984.

The fund has hatched some some 3,000 peregrines in captivity and released them in 28 states, where there are now more than 300 pairs -- more than 10 times the number in 1975.

The speedy falcons are doing well both in the United States and Europe. They nest not only on high cliffs, but on tall buildings in many cities.

A seven-week-old golden eagle is examined in the Snake River, Idaho, Birds of Prey Area by Michael Kochert, a researcher for the federal government. Too young to fly, the 8-pound bird already displays a strong beak and sharp talons. Some eagles banded as nestlings have returned to the area to raise their young.

Last Splash Of Summer

Kids enjoy a last splash of summer fun before starting back to school.

Yeah, we know it's pouring down rain at the Elizabethtown Fair. So what? The rain helped Denise Bollinger, 9, spray down the Guernsey, Brenda, before the show. Helping her is Jason Henisee, 12, who, with the help of Justin Wivell, 8, not pictured, fills a bucket of water to throw on Denise. But in this rain, who would know?

School Lunches - Use Imagination

School days are here again! It's ume to break out the lunch boxes, brown bags and bread and begin making sandwiches for the kids. Peanut butter and jelly, ham and cheese and bologna on white bread probably come to mind. This year, why not be more creative. The sandwiches you prepare for your children can be tasty, nutritious and fun, without requiring a great deal more time or energy on your part.

Try re-thinking the sandwich concept. Way back in the 1600s, the Earl of Sandwich invented the sandwich merely as a quick, convenient way of eating. By combining different kinds of food between two slices of bread, he was able to gamble with one hand and eat with the other. Any kind of food and any kind of bread will work.

If your kids like hamburgers at home, why not make "ham"-burgers for them to eat at school? Simply substitute sliced ham and cheese for the usual hamburger patty, and serve between two pieces of a sesame seed hamburger bun. You can do the same with a hot dog bun. Just roll-up sliced turkey or another sandwich meat and stuff between the two sides of a bun. Add whatever condiments your youngsters like and pack in a zippered plastic sandwich bag for freshness. The zipper seal prevents spills and small hands can manuever the easy open-easy close zipper. Instead of the French fries you might normally serve with a hamburger or hot dog, julienne or crinkle-cut raw carrots and celery and package in a clear, recloseable sandwich bag. The resealable bag means the veggies will not spill and will stay crunchy and delicious.

Experiment with different varieties of bread. So many are available these days. Sandwich salami and a slice of Monterey Jack cheese between two slices of rye bread. Spread peanut butter and honey on oatmeal bread. Make a three-cheese sandwich — Cheddar, Colby and Swiss — and serve on italian bread with lettuce and tomato. Spread peanut butter and apple slices on raisin bread. If your child is not a member of the "Just Say No To Vegetables" club, make a California vegetarian-style pita pocket sandwich using fresh avocado, tomato, lettuce, sprouts, shredded carrots and a slice a Havarti or Muenster cheese.

How about a new twist on tuna! "Tuna Stuffed Pita Rolls" (recipe follows) are delicious, low in cholesterol and fun to eat. They also are easy to make. Rather than cutting pita into two traditional "pockets," split pita pockets in half horizontally producing two rounds. Layer a delicious mixture of tuna, chopped celery, yogurt, mustard, minced sweet pickle and lettuce onto each round. Then roll-up both rounds and insert into two zippered plastic sandwich bags.

Imagination and nutrition are important for making a good sandwich. Discuss the four foods groups with your children as you prepare their school lunches. Talk about the different foods that fit into each group and explain how they make the body healthy. If you are not familiar with the four food groups or do not understand what they contribute to one's health, call or write to me at the Lancaster County Extension Office, and ask for your free copy of "A Guide to Good Eating."

Rain Fails To Stop Somerset Fair Queen Festivities

GAY N. BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — A driving rain Sunday evening emptied the Somerset County grandstand in a hurry. However, the fair directors steered the scurrying crowd into the shelter of the large show ring building where the county fair queen competition was held.

Five young ladies competing for the title, "Fairest of the Fair," arrived in automobiles and stepped from them looking fresh and elegant in their gowns, as if not one drop of rain had dampened their skin and hair.

Contestants for the "Fairest of the Fair" title in Somerset County were from left, Tracy Burkett, Wendy Will, Amy Sanner, Tammy Frazier, and Greta Mostoller.

Wendy Will, a high school senior from Berlin, was selected as the new queen to succeed Jenny Welch, 1989 winner. First runner-up was Amy Sanner, 17, from Rockwood.

Numerous activities keep Wendy on the go. In this year's fair she has entries in the dairy cow and swine divisions. She's been a delegate to the National 4-H Congress held in Chicago, and once came away the recipient of a $1,500 scholarship in the area of consumer education. Her nine-year membership in the Milksquirts 4-H club has enabled her to hold many offices.

She is a three-time gold medalist for her participation in the Penn State Achievement Days. Her interest in amateur photography helped her to win a national photography contest. Additionally, Wendy is active in her church youth group, holds a job, and babysits her younger brother, Joshua, 5.

Wendy says photography is an enjoyable hobby. "My dad's a photographer and has a business and he has taught me all I know. I just do it for fun."

Her older brother, Matt, is 20. She is the daughter of Jim and Mary Will.

Master of ceremonies for the evening was James Bochy, retired county extension agent. Judges were Lori Laczynski, Dearborn, MI, and Rick and Sandy Allen, Smock, PA.

The Landis family stands in front of the 1743 stone house that Jeff, left, is restoring. Next is Carolyn, Ken, and Steve Snader who taught Jeff how to repoint the stones.

Farmer Restores 1743 House

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

CHRISTIANA (Lancaster Co.) — The tenth oldest house in Lancaster County overlooks the scenic rushing waters of Octorara Creek.

For years, historians have longed to purchase the stone house from Ken and Carolyn Landis. But the Landises adamently refused.

"It's one of those things you never sell," Landis said.

The house sets near to their own farmhouse located on 137 acres of farmland. They neither want the beauty of the area trampled by streams of tourists nor want to part with the historic landmark. Their children Lisa and Jeff feel the same way. Ever since Jeff was six years old and explored the rubble in the colonial structure, he vowed that someday, he would fix it and live in it.

That day has come. Jeff is now 20. In the past months, he has stripped the walls, dug out the cellar by hand, and repointed the stone exterior and fireplace.

The most outstanding feature of the house is the massive stone 8x36x6-foot fireplace built in the center of the house. It has four open flues — the only one like it in Lancaster County. Two outer walls have flues and inserts where heated ashes were kept to keep the house warmer.

While rebuilding part of the stone that had crumbled, Jeff

The house as it appeared before the Landis family began restoring it had a large crack that needed to be repaired. The crooked 30-inch walls with narrow windows to protect occupants from Indian arrows is the tenth oldest home in Lancaster County.

Goose Creek Farm Finds Niche In Egg Market

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

WESTTOWN (Chester Co.) — Eva Foster is a farmer surrounded by suburbia. With only 20 acres and a flock of 300 free-ranging chickens, she struggles to carve a unique niche "for the freshest most natural eggs found in Chester County," in a market that caters to big-time operators.

A former real estate broker, Eva gave up making big bucks in development "because I could no longer sell land in good conscience," she said.

Now instead of pushing for development, she squawks at zoning hearings in behalf of farming. She writes and phones congressmen to give a farmer's perspective on issues. As a Republican committeewoman, she pushes farmers to get involved in politics. In July, she testified on the Egg Refrigeration bill heard by the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee.

She appealed to the committee to understand that small farm businesses like hers are overregulated by ever-increasing state and county laws that overregulate everything from zoning to wetlands.

She said, "For small farmers like me, there are no price supports, no subsidies, no lobbyists, or virtually no agri-business support. This egg refrigeration law would probably be the last straw for me and the hundreds of other small egg producers who would be driven out of business.

"I ask you to think about all the businesses that would be hurt by your law. It's bad enough that you would ruin me and about 500 other small egg producers around the state. What about the farmer in my township who grows my corn, the man who comes to grind it? How about the hatchery run by a 75-year-old man who hatches and vaccinates my chicks? Each is dependent on the other. Take a link out of this chain and you've broken it forever."

She appealed to their emotions by asking, "Which one of you will be the first to put your grandmother out of business by telling her that she has to get a refrigerated truck and a refrigerated cooler for her stand?"

She requested them to exempt small egg producers.

According to the amendment analysis of Bill No. HB 2646, the committee took her requests into consideration and drew up amendments to exempt small egg processors that maintain a poultry flock of 3,200 birds or less during the year; market eggs predominantly within a 25-mile radius of his or her processing facility; and sell or market all eggs within seven days of lay.

Although Eva's testimony and presentation before the committee seemed assured, confident, and assertive, Eva admits that she was scared and did not want to testify.

"I strongly assumed I was the token egg farmer, and because I was a woman, I believed I needed to make the strongest speech," she said.

But she admits that her knees shook until she thought about her chickens and how she might need to give up her career.

"Then I got mad," she said. "And I knew I had to testify even if they did crucify me."

Eva's evolvement into chicken farming happened by chance. In 1977, the Fosters were looking for an acre of ground on which to build a house. They found 9.8 acres in a flood plain, which the owner sold at a reduced price, but still large for the young couple. In the spring of 1978, they wanted to build, but had a difficult time obtaining financing since Eva intended to be the construction manager. Ironically, she won a simple bank contest by guessing the amount of jelly beans in a bowl. The press came to take a picture of her receiving the award from the bank president. While shaking hands with the manager, Eva coerced him with the words, "You are going to give us the loan, aren't you, or I'll call a press conference immediately."

Grudgingly the banker agreed.

"I'm very stubborn," Eva admitted. "Heaven and earth will not move me from my goals."

It took more than stubbornness for the Fosters to finish their project. For months they hammered, nailed, and painted.

Eva and her husband Tom, who is editor for Chilton publications, would get up at 4 a.m. to work on the house. They used a flashlight until the sun came up and it was time to rush to their paying jobs. At 5 p.m., it was time to work on the house again often late into the night by using flashlights. After the Fosters finished their two-story home, they decided to do something with the land. They talked with the county agent who pronounced that the only thing that would grow on the land was webbed feet.

They purchased five geese for fun and the name Goose Creek Farm was christened. With the five geese, the Fosters did custom hatching for Agway.

But geese only lay in spring. To get some year-round income, Eva got several chickens. At first, she gave the excess eggs to a few neighbors. Soon, they insisted on paying for the eggs.

"I realized I could make some money at this, so I bought a few more chickens," Foster said.

Her ever-expanding neighborhood provided the ideal market for going door-to-door with eggs.

But that same expanding neighborhood also caused some problems. Neighbors complained of roosters crowing. One contacted the Board of Health and accused her of storing feed outside and having rats running around.

The Board of Health made an inspection and Eva's farm passed with flying colors. But to stop harassment about the barnyard noises, required her to be in a ag security area.

"I had heard a similar case in which the court ruled that the rooster must have his voicebox removed."

Incensed and determined that would never happen to her roosters, Eva vowed to get the minimum requirement of 500 acres needed to have the township placed in an ag security area.

Through sheer willpower, she knocked on doors and by getting 10 acres here and 20 acres there, she was able to acquire 1,100 acres to have the township designated as an ag security area.

"Now my roosters can crow as loud as they want, and neighbors can't do anything about it," Eva boasted. "The designation protects us from complaints, nuisances, and suits."

But an ag security area did not solve all the problems.

There's the egg refrigeration law, the wetlands issue, animal rightist's groups who show up on her doorstep, and suburbia that is always trying to stop the farmer.

"It's one thing after another," Eva said. Recently the township drew up new zoning restrictions of 10 chickens per acre.

While fighting zoning and regulations, Eva makes sure her chickens get the best of care. Nothing is done mechanically among her 300 chickens. They are confined until noon in a chicken house and fenced in area until they lay their eggs.

Eva refers to her chickens as "the girls." As she reaches into the nests to gather eggs, she says, "Excuse me, girls."

At noon, the chickens are allowed free-range of the grounds until bedtime when they respond willingly to Eva's bedtime call.

The happy flock of chickens cackles while the roosters crow. Ducks keep the flies at a minimum.

Her chickens go through a natural molt yearly and live out their natural days after laying an average of three years.

"I just couldn't look my chickens in the eyes and say goodbye," she said. But she does give away old chickens to those who request them. She said that mostly ethnic groups ask for them and she doesn't ask them what they are going to do with them.

To encourage the chickens to lay eggs in the nest, Eva placed golf balls in the nests. It fakes the chickens into believing the balls are eggs and they sit on the nest to hatch the eggs. She feeds them a mixture of ground corn, unmedicated feed from Pennfield, and crushed oyster shells to make the shells a good quality.

Eva Foster holds Fuzz, a Braham rooster with big fuzzy feet, who roams Goose Creek Farm in Westtown.

Nothing is done mechanically in Goose Creek Farm where Eva Foster has 300 free-ranging chickens.

She gathers, washes, and packs the eggs by hand.

She sells her eggs to local stores for $1.25 a dozen. Retail prices are $1.49 to $1.89 a dozen. She contacts stores where service and quality are important and now supplies eggs to seven stores.

Eva isn't trying to stop the mass egg producer, but neither does she want to be swallowed up by him.

"There is a market for both," she said. "Some people can't afford the prices required to buy eggs from free-range chickens."

She adds that it would be difficult to feed the world using this method, but it's a method that works well for her because it carries low overhead and provides a niche in the market not otherwise met.

Recently she took her eggs to a store that had every egg brand available. Her first delivery was 10 dozen. Now they want 120 dozen a week. Priced higher than her competitors' eggs, what is the secret to Foster's successful selling?

It may be that little note that she tucks inside each paper carton. It greets new customers with the message: "You have just purchased the freshest, most natural eggs available in Chester County. All my chickens are allowed to range free so they receive fresh air, clean water, exercise, and natural feed. This natural method of raising chickens assures you the best tasting, most healthful eggs."

Her little notes invoke curiosity and nostalgia partially because she uses a square box of brown eggs — just like grandma used to use.

As a result of her notes, people come to visit her farm. She's even received fan mail.

She said, "I think it shows how much I care, and I think people can taste the difference."

Although there is more and more demand for her eggs, she can't expand because she can't afford to pay labor when the fast food businesses are paying $7 an hour for unskilled labor.

The farm now totals 20 acres. The Fosters would like to dig out a pond for their geese, but current wetland laws prohibit it. When the Fosters purchased the land, the Act 1849 allowed them to reclaim the land for farming. But in 1978, a law was passed that enforced wetlands to remain as such and not be reclaimed.

If the government insists that the wetlands are so valuable that the landowner cannot drain them, the Fosters believe that the government should then buy the land.

Goose Creek Farm

No matter what she does, Eva claims, "I never go in debt over anything. I let chickens pay their own way."

Sometimes she gives them a boost in paying their own way like the time she won first prize in a mushroom contest. She had entered because she wanted money for a chicken house. After winning, the press asked her why she had entered the contest. She responded: "Because I needed money for a new chicken house and $300 ain't chicken feed."

To those who scoff at Eva's little operation, she reminds them that Frank Perdue got his start in the chicken industry the same way she is — by going door to door — and look at him today."

She adds, "My husband brings home the bacon, but I bring home the eggs."

Berks Society 1

The Berks Society of Farm Women Group 1 held their monthly meeting at the home of Dorothy Doch, Boyertown. Ruth Walters conducted devotions and 18 members answered roll call.

President Esther Burndt conducted the business meeting. The group will be selling homemade baked goods at the Reading Fair on September 19 and 20. Final plans were made to attend the county convention on August 19 at noon.

Next month's meeting will be held at the home of Joan Haas, Douglasville. Arlene Hafer will speak on safety.

Octorara Farmer Restores 1743 Stone House

found horse hair and hog bristles in the mortar that had been mixed from sand and clay from the creek. The stones used to build the house and the fireplace had been gathered from the land.

Built in 1743 by a Frenchman named deVore, the house has a wooden insert with the painted words, "The Lord is my support, July 24, 1743."

The words, the Landises believe, are painted with the same paint that Indians had used for warpaint. The red paint comes from the stem of a flower that grows in the woods nearby.

Another unusual feature is the 30-inch walls with narrow windows that are tapered inward so that they are wider outside than inside.

The windows were built in this fashion — much like those that appear in forts — because Indians and the white men were not on friendly terms during that time. According to the Landises, these windows enabled the homeowner to shoot at the Indians while it was more difficult for the Indians' arrows to hit the family inside.

Jeff has found cannonballs and tomahawks in the house. An Indian burial ground is nearby and herbs thought to be planted by the Indians still grow there.

Jeff began working on repointing and rebuilding the chimney in March. He has chipped off the old mortar by hand and sandblasted the stones himself. It took 2,500 pounds of sand to do two walls of the house.

Despite his youth, Jeff always has had a knack for understanding how to do things, his parents said. He said that he can learn anything by watching someone else do it.

That includes plastering, repointing stones, mortaring, and electrical work.

Ever since the Landises owned the home, it had a large crack in one of the outside walls. Jeff is rebuilding it. The house, thought to have shifted a year after being built, still leans to one side. It's shaker shingle roof needs to be replaced. Jeff hopes to have the shell completed by December or January so that he can begin working on inside rooms. He plans to tear down an old barn and use the lumber to replace the beams in the house where he will make four bedrooms and a bathroom.

Jeff has assisted in Habitat for Humanity projects (building houses for the underprivileged), but he says that he cannot stay away from his home for more than a week because he likes to farm too much. He helps his dad with 65 Holsteins, 40 heifers and they crop farm on the 137 acres.

Father and son also restore old cars. "We keep the Corvettes but resell other makes," Ken said.

Jeff has had several good job offers, which he turned down.

"If I took a job, I'm afraid I might start relying on the income and benefits, and that would make it hard to give up and come back to farming full time," he said. "I always wanted to be a farmer so why should I try anything else?"

Jeff prefers isolation to civilization. "The more in the 'boonies', the better," he says.

The Landis farm is about as far as one can get to the 'boonies' in Lancaster County. It is reached by a narrow winding road through virgin woodland and beautiful rolling farmland. The Octorara Creek that slices through the Landis' farm divides their farm in half and also forms the boundary between Lancaster and Chester counties. The Octorara has been designated as a scenic and wild river that has zoning and planning protection. The clean and fast running river was called "Sweet Water" by the native Delaware and migrating Shawnee Indians who settled there.

It was a place that Indians and White Men alike loved. And, for Jeff, there is no place he'd rather live and farm.

"I'll never sell this," Jeff vowed as he admired the stone structure. "Not at any price."

Lancaster Society 14

Lancaster Farm Women #14 met at the home of Caroline Stoltzfus on August 8.

The subject for a devotional given by Janet Leaman was faithfulness taken from various scriptures. Roll call was in answer to the question "Where did I spend the night, the last time I was away from home?"

Members helped the program committee plan for the September meeting by canceling a bus trip and deciding instead to have lunch together at Willow Valley and tour the Hans Herr House.

Members decided to contribute $100 to the county project, Habitat for Humanity and $75 to multiple sclerosis because members are sponsoring Ellen Newswanger who will be riding bicycle for multiple sclerosis.

Ellen Newswanger gave some tips about the safe use of electricity; also a health tip "Keep mental abilities sharp with exercise."

The club president gave members a paper with the question - How do I recycle? - to help develop an awareness of the importance of recycling.

Members had a great time bidding on the many items that were put up for auction. There were many food products, plants and gift items.

BARN CLEANERS

Built to clean faster... built to last longer!

JAMESWAY

All-forged Hook-Link® chain... available on Super 300 and Super 500 barn cleaners

Extra thick steel at all wear points

IMPORTANT: Look for the "parting line" on any barn cleaner chain you buy. It shows where excess metal has been trimmed off. It is your assurance that the link was totally forged, not just punched out of a flat steel bar with grain flow in one direction only.
You want a totally-forged link because forging changes the grain on the steel, causing it to curve in unbroken flow lines around the contours of the link, giving the link greater strength to serve you longer.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

EDITOR'S NOTE: Joyce Battcher is on vacation. This is a repeat selected from past readers' favorites.

Fresh peaches are wonderful to eat out of hand, but they also make luscious microwaved desserts.

In Fresh Peach Pudding, one peach is cooked with the pudding mixture to give a peachy taste. After cooking the pudding, more diced fresh peaches are added, uncooked, along with almond extract to give a fresh peach taste. The combination is rich tasting, but not too high in calories and fat.

Cooking is easy. Stirring the pudding about halfway through cooking and once toward the end is all that's needed to make a smooth, creamy mixture. Notice that skim milk works well in this recipe.

In Fresh Peach Dessert Squares, buttermilk baking mix -- like Bisquick -- and a few other ingredients are stirred together to make a thin crust. The crust is topped with fresh peach slices arranged in rows. And finally, peaches are topped with a crumbly mixture of oatmeal, brown sugar, cinnamon and butter. The crumbly topping gives a baked-like look and texture to this homey dessert.

Cooking here, too, is fast and easy: About 12 minutes of microbaking time is all it takes. Medium Power (50 percent power, 325-350 watts) is used for slow cooking so that the center gets done better. A special technique using aluminum foil helps the center get done without getting the corners overdone and dried out. Because metal reflects microwaves, foil -- if used correctly -- can be a useful tool to prevent overcooking on corners of this and other desserts, bars and cakes.

Cover only the corners or other undone edges. Mold the foil around the dish so edges of foil are smooth against the dessert and dish. Keep foil at least one inch from microwave walls or ceiling. Before using foil, be sure to check your microwave cookbook or use and care guide and to follow your manufacturer's recommendations.

Fresh Peach Pudding

½ cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¾ cup skim, low-fat or regular milk
3 or 4 peaches, diced (peel, if desired)
¼ teaspoon almond extract

In microwave-safe 4- to 6-cup measure, stir together sugar and cornstarch; gradually stir in milk until smooth. Stir in only 1 diced peach; reserve remaining peaches for later. Microwave (High) 4 to 5 minutes, stirring after each 1½ minutes, or until pudding is thick. Stir in remaining diced peaches and almond extract. Pour into 4 or 5 individual serving dishes. Serve warm or cold. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

Each serving -- ¼ of recipe: 160 calories, 2g protein, 0 fat, 39g carbohydrate, 25mg sodium, 2mg cholesterol.

Fresh Peach Dessert Squares

1 egg
2 tablespoons packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons oil
2 tablespoons milk
¾ cup buttermilk baking mix
2 large peaches, sliced (peel, if desired)
⅓ cup quick oatmeal (not instant)
⅓ cup granulated sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons soft butter

In a small mixing bowl, using a fork, mix egg until white and yolk are combined. Mix in brown sugar, oil and milk until smooth. Stir in baking mix until well combined. Spread mixture in an ungreased microwave-safe 8-inch square dish, spreading slightly thicker in dish corners and slightly thinner in dish center. Arrange peach slices close together in a single layer in about 3 rows to cover dough. Combine remaining ingredients and sprinkle evenly over peaches. Microwave on Medium (50 percent power, 325-350 watts) 10 minutes, rotating dish once. Then cover corners of dessert with 4-inch-wide triangles of aluminum foil, molding foil around dish corners. Microwave (High) 2 to 4 minutes or until center is no longer doughy. Let dish stand on flat surface for at least 10 minutes. Cut into squares and serve warm or cold. Refrigerate leftovers. Makes 9 dessert servings.

Each serving: 152 calories, 2g protein, 8g fat, 19g carbohydrate, 214mg sodium, 35mg cholesterol.

Questions and answers—

Q. Do you have to cover everything in the microwave?

A. No. Some foods are best left uncovered. Examples are puddings, most starch-thickened sauces, small cakes, muffins, and vegetables cooked in their skin (like squash, potatoes, or sweet corn in the husk).

Q. Do you have to vent plastic wrap for microwaving?

A. It depends. Most cookbooks recommend venting for safety's sake because cooking steam collects in the covered container, and when you remove the plastic wrap you could be burned from the steam. However, when cooking foods for a short time where much steam won't collect (for example, heating a plate of leftovers), you don't need to vent the plastic wrap. Also, after you've become an experienced microwaver, you'll learn how to carefully lift the tight cover away from you and how to avoid burns; then you may want to cover the dish without venting for certain other uses.

Q. If a recipe doesn't say to cover or what kind of cover to use, could I always use a casserole cover?

A. No. If a recipe says nothing about covering, don't cover the food at all. If the recipe just says "cover," a casserole lid often works well. But sometimes a loose cover -- such as waxed paper ;or even the lid set slightly off the top -- works better. For example, when cooking chicken with a crispy coating, hamburger, or fish, a waxed paper cover is the best choice.

RYE SEED
New Danko Rye Seed offers many advantages including yields approximately as high as wheat (up to 80 bu/acre) plus high resistance to winter injury, lodging & sprouting.
Danko is a fine-seeded rye variety & Davey-Joan's of Williamstown, New York is a major propagator and source of Danko rye seed in the U.S. They report that even with this year's above normal (25") rainfall in their area in May, June & July they have experienced no lodging or sprouting.
Danko can be planted from the 2nd week in September to November 1st. The ideal time is the first week of October. It grows later in the fall & starts earlier in the Spring.
Davey-Joan's has clean seed available in both bulk truck or trailer loads and in bushel bags at $6.00 bagged or $5.50 bulk per bushel - FOB Williamstown, N.Y. Please call for quotes on tractor trailer load quantities.

INTRODUCING THE REDESIGNED WRANGLER

OUR BEST VALUE TRAILER JUST GOT BETTER.

The new Wrangler. More aerodynamic. Better looking. And the strongest Wrangler yet. With top-quality components and rugged construction, this Wrangler is the best trailer value you can find.

- LIGHTWEIGHT- Eby stock trailers are 25-35% lighter than comparable steel trailers. Less weight means better fuel mileage or increased payload.
- MAINTENANCE- Eby aluminum trailers won't rust. Welding and painting can cost you dollars in down time and repairs.
- DURABILITY- Eby trailers are built tough. Quality components and 6061 alloy aluminum provide the ruggedness required in a livestock trailer.

Four models are available: Model 8530 (105 PTO hp), Model 8630 (121 PTO hp), Model 8730 (140 PTO hp) and Model 8830 (170 PTO hp). Ultra-Command™ is available on the three larger models.

Davis Dominates Kutztown Holstein Show

VAL VANTASSEL
Berks Co. Correspondent

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — Ray Davis wasn't prepared for his senior two-year-old to win the Kutztown Fair Holstein Show last Monday.

"I was really surprised. I expected Ginger to win." Daview Pete Ginger, a four-year-old that has seen lots of time in the winner's circle, belongs to Ray's oldest son, Jeffrey.

Ray credits youngest son Michael with recognizing Caw-Croft Stewart Star's show qualities. "He really pushed us to bring her to the fair. I don't know whether we would have bothered

Kutztown Holstein Show

with her if Mike hadn't been so insistent," Davis said.

According to Michael she also has the potential to be a fine milker. "She is projected for 20,000 lbs of milk," he said.

Michael had the honors of showing his dad's first grand champion. "With three expert showmen in the family I don't have to show my animals," Ray explained.

The two other Davis family showmen also had a good night at the fair. The Ginger cow was selected as the Grand Champion in the youth division. Jeff shared the spotlight with his sister Jennifer who had the reserve champion in the youth division. Jeff also had the reserve junior champion in the youth division.

While the Davis family isn't new to the show ring they have just started farming.

For several years the three Northern Berks 4-H members kept animals with their uncle Luther Davis on the Daview Farm in Kutztown. At the end of November the family purchased a farm in Leesport R.D. 2. "We named it JMJ Springpond Farm. The JMJ stands for Jeffrey, Michael, and Jennifer," Ray's wife Frances explained.

According to Ray the Grand Champion was purchased to help stock the new facility. "We have 36 milking animals," he added.

Frances also confessed she wasn't looking for the night's triple win. "I had no notion this was going to happen. I left my camera at home so I had to borrow one."

Judge John Howard of Lancaster County awarded the reserve champion honors to the second place senior two-year-old owned by Scott and Constance Troutman of Myerstown. "We were hoping we'd do well but you never know till you see the competition."

The Troutmans shared the credit with Connie's dad, Elwood Ohlinger. "He selected the sire," Connie explained.

The Troutmans will be taking Reu-Hel Farms Melvin Mint to the Eastern Holstein Show next week. Besides the reserve champion the Troutmans also had another first place class winner as well as three group class winners.

Another Reu-Hel bred animal won the Junior Championship. Reu-Hel Mark Mink, an intermediate yearling award by Stacey Geist, impressed the judge with her dairy character and overall sharpness. Mink was the only youth entry to win a title in the open show.

Quarry-Field Frosty Casandra, owned and bred by Gary and Martha Heffner was the reserve junior champion. Martha had high hopes for the show but she didn't place them on the senior heifer. "We always try to give the best animals to our children to show. This year it didn't work out." Despite the surprise the Heffners were pleased with the animals' performance.

Lincoln, Neb. Is Site For Polled Hereford Show

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The spirit of youth and their enthusiasm for Polled Hereford cattle was seen when junior members from across the nation converged on Lincoln, Neb., for the 17th Junior National Polled Hereford Show and Forum.

Held July 15-20 at the Nebraska State Fair Park, this annual event included a national heifer and steer show in addition to numerous competitions which focused on leadership, teamwork, the beef industry, and the Polled Hereford breed.

Two 14-year-old junior members from the South took the top two heifer show trophies home with them. Earning the grand champion title from among 357 heifers was Heather Hicks of Cullman, Ala., on VLGP Select Race ET 262Y. Her G&R AJS Raceway 1900 daughter was calved in April 1989. In the bred-and-owned heifer show, the grand champion was shown by Stanley Hathorn Jr., of Louisville, Miss. His entry, HHH Sabrina Y557, was sired by General Motion and born in February 1989.

The reserve grand champion heifer was shown by Jamie Golden, Arrowsmith, Ill. Golden's entry, HPH Winning Silence 908, was sired by JDH Hawk Nautique 1U and calved in March 1989. The reserve champion bred-and-owned heifer was exhibited by Brian Birdsall, Homer, N.Y. Birdsall's entry, BBA Miss Ghost 9Y, is a June 1989 daughter of Ghost Ryder.

Twelve-year-old Missy McGee of Fairbury, Neb., claimed the overall grand champion cow-calf banner on VCR Sassy Chassis 802X, by Ihry GK Race, and her January heifer calf by Kilmorlie Deliverance 80U. They earlier topped the standard division of cow-calves, which included cows owned, but not bred, by the exhibitor.

Ben Cross of Kennerdell, Pa., exhibited the champion bred-and-owned cow-calf pair in the 21-pair cow-calf show. His duo included CWF Mainstream Maggie V21, by WSF Mainstream 186P, and her March bull calf by HHH Scotch Pzazz R11.

The reserve standard and overall reserve grand champion pair belonged to Stephen Fritz, Mann's Choice, Pa. His duo included PS Victoria 514, by Stlbrk Gilead 67K, and her February heifer calf by Ihry GK Race. Crystal Kirby owned the reserve champion bred-and-owned cow-calf. Her pair included CCC Miss Magic Sunrise 1X, by FCF Magic 433, and her March heifer calf, by CCC Klondike Jog 7U.

The 48-head steer show was topped by Heather McBee, Glenmont, Ohio. Her 1,200 lb. market animal, which was sired by BT Mohican Dan 544T, posted .24 in. backfat and a 2.71 lb. WDA. The reserve champion steer was a Stars N Stripes son owned by Curt Stockdale, Dayton, Pa. His exhibit, which followed the champion steer to the top of the show, weighed 1,205 lb.

Winning the Junior National Premier Exhibitor award for the second consecutive year was Tammy Riffel of Enterprise, Kan. She also collected the award for Junior Premier Breeder. Adult Premier Breeder was ACE Land & Cattle Co., Skiatook, Okla. Illinois showed the best state group of heifers for the second year in a row.

Officiating the two-day heifer, cow-calf, and steer show was lead judge Clint Rusk, Fort Collins, Colo., and associate judge Paul Slayton, Schellsburg, Pa.

Other activities at the Junior National included the presentation of the National Junior Merit Award and the Walter and Joe Lewis Memorial Award. Dan

Polled Hereford Show

Moser of Effingham, Kan., won both of these prestigious honors. The American Polled Hereford Association's Junior Merit award recognized Moser for excelling in leadership and citizenship, plus beef cattle activities. The Lewis Memorial Award acknowledged Moser's overall achievement in team and individual endeavors during the 17th Junior National.

First runner-up in the national Junior Merit competition was Glen Waters, Stet, Mo., and second runner-up was Leigh Ann Penn, Holly Pond, Ala.

Twelve National Junior Polled Hereford Council members helped add to the smooth operation of the Junior National and all its activities. The Council members represent the 37 state junior Polled Hereford associations and hold two-year terms on the national board. For 1990-1991, officers included Chairman Fred Wingert, Ottawa, Kan.: Vice-Chairman Sally Hart, Pikeville, Tenn.; Secretary Shannon Neal, Osgood, Ind.; and Reporter Crystal Kirby, Lucama, N.C.

This year's team marketing contest drew individuals who teamed up in state groups of three. By using performance data, pedigree information, and knowledge of cattle, each group tried to sell a heifer to the panel of judges. Those groups most successful in their marketing plan were the senior team from Kansas and the junior team from Wisconsin. Runner-ups included the senior team from Oklahoma and the junior team from Ohio.

Once again, the illustrated speech contest proved a success. Topping the junior division was Beth Oltman, Mt. Horeb, Wis. The best senior speech was given by Erica Clark, Mansfield, Texas. Second place winners included junior Wendi Bierschenk, Randolph, Neb. and senior Jock Beeson, Wayne, Neb. Third places went to junior Jami Stump, Blue Rapids, Kan., and senior Leigh Ann Penn, Holly Pond, Ala.

More than 200 juniors put their showing skills to work for judge Bob Tiedeman, North Platte, Neb., in the showmanship contest. Earning the senior division titles were two members from Kansas. Steve Osborne, Courtland, was champion, while Dan Moser, Effingham, was reserve. The junior division was won by Ohio junior members Brad Gunlock, Chillicothe, champion, and Heather McBee, Glenmont, reserve.

Megan Heard, Mansfield, La., was the champion pee-wee showman, while Russell Simmons, Petrolia, Texas, was the runner-up.

In Beef Bowl competition, the four-member team from Oklahoma came out on top. Pennsylvania was the reserve team in this contest, which tests youths knowledge of the beef industry and the breed in a quiz bowl format.

The National Sweepstakes award was taken back to Alabama, while the best state exhibit award went home to Wisconsin. Junior members from South Carolina won first place in the competitive scrapbook contest.

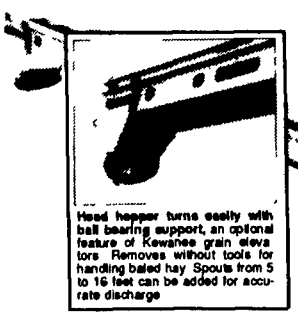
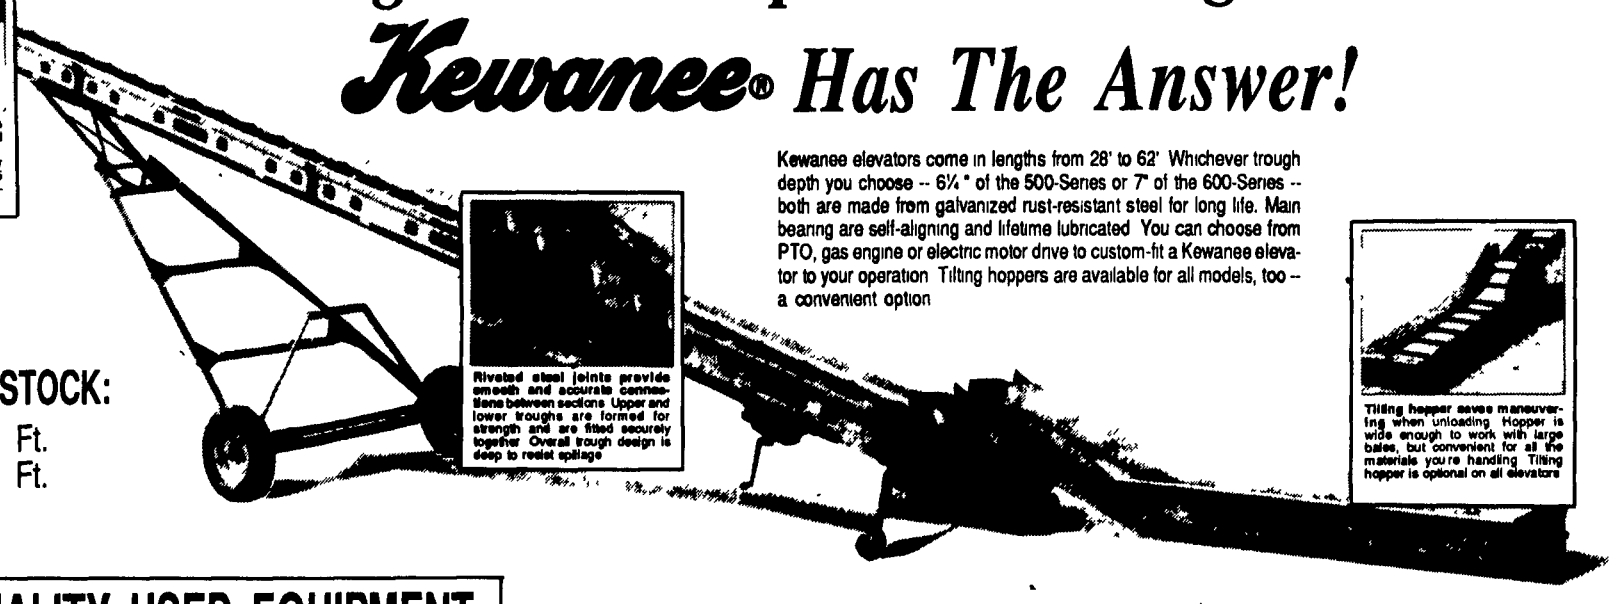
Your Large Corn Crop Needs A Big Elevator!
Kewanee® Has The Answer!



Head hopper turns easily with ball bearing support, an optional feature of Kewanee grain elevators Removes without tools for handling baled hay Spouts from 5 to 16 feet can be added for accurate discharge



Kewanee elevators come in lengths from 28' to 62' Whichever trough depth you choose -- 6¼" of the 500-Series or 7" of the 600-Series -- both are made from galvanized rust-resistant steel for long life. Main bearing are self-aligning and lifetime lubricated You can choose from PTO, gas engine or electric motor drive to custom-fit a Kewanee elevator to your operation Tilting hoppers are available for all models, too -- a convenient option

Riveted steel joints provide smooth and accurate connections between sections Upper and lower troughs are formed for strength and are fitted securely together Overall trough design is deep to resist spillage

Tilting hopper saves maneuvering when unloading Hopper is wide enough to work with large bales, but convenient for all the materials you're handling Tilting hopper is optional on all elevators

COMPARE THESE FEATURES AND OPTIONS

Simple hydraulics allows one valve to operate the lift and stabilizer cylinders. Center plumbing means less hose length and easier coupling.

The basic box is heavy duty steel welded seams, and reinforced for even more strength.

Standard offset hitch adjusts in 5 inch steps to lengths from 6'3" to 7'11". To allow for different row crop spacings, you can offset either right or left 5, 7½, 10 or 12½ inches.

Rub rails offer more protection to vehicles when approaching, during dumping cycle, and when departing.

Stabilizer cylinders hydraulically lock on to axle to hold wagon rigid during dump cycle.

Galvanized roof features vent insert for straight-through air flow.

The model 700 dump wagon is designed for years of trouble free service. The hydraulic system with a cable assist is designed to unload large loads of up to 20,000 lbs. quickly and efficiently even if the load is not distributed evenly.

Make your operation safer • Use year round • Variety of crops • All field conditions • Operate in wet and muddy

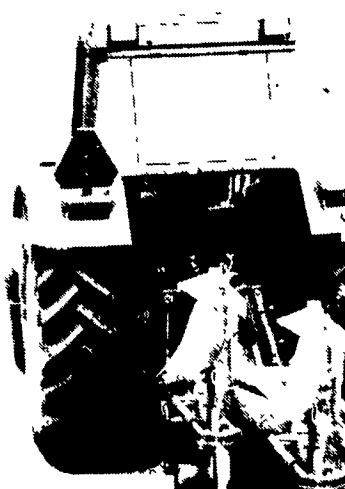
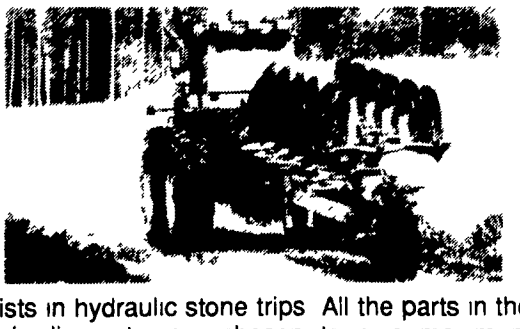
THINKING ABOUT FALL PLOWING?



THINK ÖVERUM REVERSIBLE PLOWS

Överum mounted reversible plough with hydraulic stone release system 2-5 furrows



Överum semi-mounted reversible plough 4-7 furrows with hydraulic stone release system

Överum are specialists in hydraulic stone trips All the parts in the frame, the beams, bodies, etc. are chosen to give maximum strength and durability to the plough.

THE BRAGGING STOPS. . . .
. . . IN THE FIELD

Axial-Flow Combines Are Simply More Productive

Over the past twelve years the Case IH axial-flow combines have proven themselves to be more productive than the combines previously owned by our customers. In tall crops, short crops or down crops; bumper crops or drought crops the axial-flow combines put more crop in the bin and, therefore, return more market dollars to you. The Case IH axial-flow is simply more productive in the field where the bragging stops.

1. Every new combine Hoober sells is expertly predelivered and started in the field by a professional combine mechanic; experienced in setting and adjusting for all common crops.
2. Hoober's professional combine mechanics drive fully equipped combine service trucks, stocked with commonly used wearing parts. When called to service or repair an axial-flow combine, they carry with them the tools and equipment to do the job and get you back to the field fast.
3. Hoober's Parts Department has the largest combine parts inventory in the East. Daily pick-ups at the Case IH Parts depot help to provide fast emergency parts availability. Hoober's expert combine PARTS service provides you minimum downtime and maximum productivity.

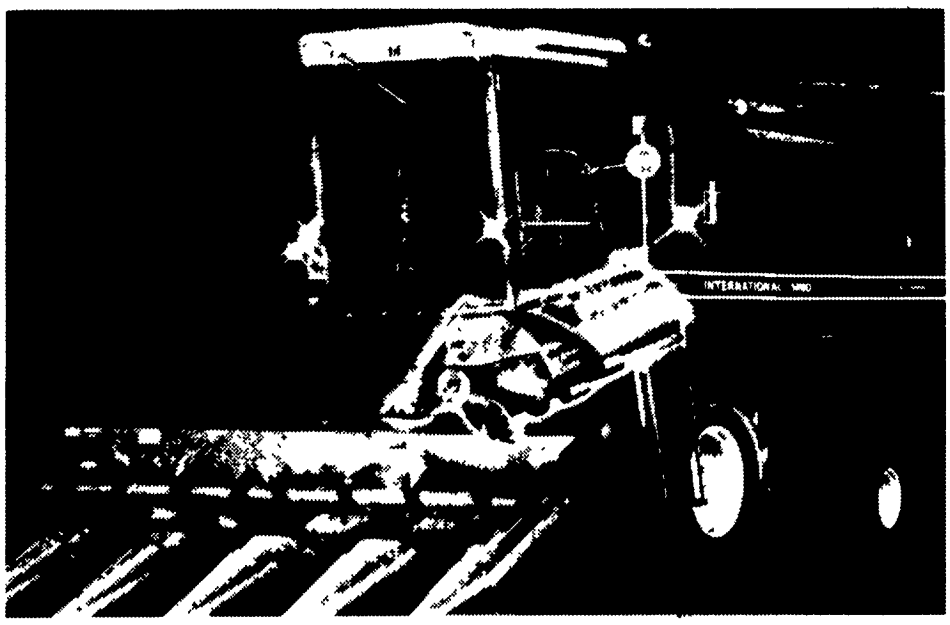
YOU DON'T NEED TO BE A MATHEMATICIAN TO LEARN



THE 3 LAWS

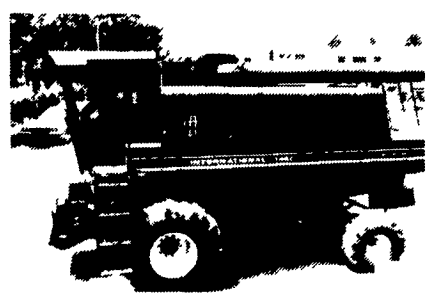
OF HOOBER RECONDITIONED AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES.

YOU ONLY NEED TO TRY ONE.

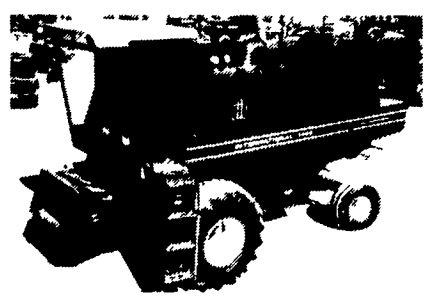
1st LAW OF HOOBER RECONDITIONED AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES

SEVEN (7) YEARS OLD IS NOT EQUAL TO (≠) WORN OUT

Because of the simple design of the CASE IH Axial Flow Combines, they can be reconditioned by Hoober's expert combine mechanics to like new condition, so they will provide 2nd and 3rd owners years of satisfactory and profitable operation.



IH 1460, 3612 Hrs., Diesel w/Turbo, Hydro, 28Lx26 Tires, Field Ready, 1980 (U4801)



IH 1440, 2760 Hrs., 28Lx26, 11.00x16 Tires, Auto Header Control, AC/Htr (U4817)

2nd LAW OF HOOBER RECONDITIONED AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES

3,000 HOURS PLUS (+) HOOBER RECONDITIONING EQUALS (=) YEARS OF DEPENDABLE SERVICE

3,000 hours on a conventional combine usually means too much trouble to be dependable. Axial-Flow Combines with 3,000 hours reconditioned by Hoober's have proven to run for years when bought by farmers in Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and New York.

IH 1460, 3000 Hrs., 1981, Diesel, Hydro, 30.5x32 Tires (U4847)

IH 1480, 2067 Hrs., Diesel, Hydro, Cab w/AC, Auto Header Control (U5082)

3rd LAW OF HOOBER RECONDITIONED AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES

A CASE-IH AXIAL-FLOW COMBINE SERVICED BY EXPERT HOOBER COMBINE MECHANICS EQUALS (=) LITTLE OR NO DOWN TIME DURING HARVEST.

When Hoober's expert combine mechanics service Axial-Flow Combines in the off-season, they run trouble-free through the season.

TORQUE AMPLIFIERS & CLUTCHES

★ New Wider Heavy Duty Super Sprag 1-1/32" Wide
★ 5 Yr. Warranty Against Sprag Failure
★ Introductory Price $695.00
★ Will Be Introduced At Ag Progress Days

We are pleased to announce a major improvement in TA strength & performance backed up by a warranty that is unmatched in the industry The 5/8" width Dana sprag which we have used over the past 10 years has proven its ability to perform under the most adverse of conditions and has achieved results that have sent our competitors scrambling to keep up. By increasing the width of the sprag to 1-1/32" and caging it in a heavier frame, we now have an unmatched shock load capacity and dramatically raised our load carrying ability. Our studies have shown that 90% of TA problems are directly related to sprag failure We feel that we now have the strongest sprag & best rebuilt TA available and it will be warranted as follows:

*5 yr. - 100% parts & labor against sprag
*2 yr. - 100% parts & labor on remainder of unit

Our standard heavy duty TA is still available at $645 00 and carries a *2 yr. - 100% parts & labor warranty.

*Certain restrictions apply and there will be a maximum labor pay-out of $450.00.

We also have units & parts available to rebuild old style TA's, including ramp & carrier sets.
NEW price on ramps & carries - $200.00

Is Your Corn Picker Engine In Shape To Handle This Year's Heavy Crop?

This twin 20 hp is becoming very popular for hay balers and other applications traditionally equipped with 2 cylinder Wisc. engines and can also replace the older 4 cylinder engines on some applications.

Works very well to run corn pickers, crimpers and mower crimper units. We can mount your Wisc. clutch reduction for $1495 or sell the engine with used Wisc. reduction for $1995. Price includes picking up your clutch and delivery of completed unit for you. (Lancaster County Only)

We Only Have A Limited Amount Of These Engines Available w/Reduction Also Available:

The feed can be safely stored at less than 30% moisture, air is effectively excluded limiting mold growth, the silo is equipped with a distributor to keep separation to a minimum which means more efficient unloading and consistent ration. The 6" solid concrete wall reflects heat meaning that heat damage is minimized and feed is kept cooler. Now Is "Decision Time". Make Plans Now To Have Your Sollenberger Silo Erected In Time To Store Your High Moisture Ground Ear Corn.

Winners Emerge At Dauphin 4-H Fair

MARY LAEGER-HAGEMEISTER
Dauphin Co. Correspondent

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — What do the Senators baseball team, theater, dance, livestock, pets, textile science, and nutrition all have in common? "4-H, A place to belong."

Dauphin County held their annual three day fair August 2-4 at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg. More than 170 Dauphin County youth participated in this showcase of 4-H projects carried during the past year.

This year's show highlighted new aspects of 4-H. One of the major events was the performances of the 4-H Theatre Arts groups under the direction of 4-H agent Helen Riley. They took center stage on Friday afternoon displaying their theatrical and musical talents to all those in attendance.

A special attraction this year was the signature signing of the Harrisburg Senators baseball players who visited the 4-H fair on Friday afternoon.

All aspects of the 4-H program are featured at the fair. This is a chance to show what they have learned and to have their skills evaluated. Each member who exhibited receives a ribbon award and is judged on their own merits.

Champions were selected in all areas of 4-H projects. These champions then compete in a round-ribon competition against the other champions to determine the winner of the Clover Awards. The Clover Award indicates the champion with the most complete background. This year's winners in the home economics division are Samuel Haverl, Harrisburg and Kara Laskowski, Halifax. In the general division, Valerie Messick of Middletown was top winner. The livestock division winners are Steve Lupey, Linglestown and Jeremy Dobbin, Halifax.

Following is a listing of the top winners in each category:

Textile science: Senior division- Grand project, Gina Fulkroad of Millersburg, Reserve project, Jesse Romberger, Millersburg.

Junior division- Grand project, Beth Tyndale, West Hanover and Emily Hercher of Harrisburg, reserve project.

EGG PROMOTION REFERENDUMS
Milton Madison
Assistant Professor
Agricultural Economics

As consumers, we are continuously bombarded by messages telling us what we should eat and what products we should buy.

Most of the messages in the media have been that we should not eat eggs or that we should eat some other product for breakfast. The message has gotten through that there are a lot of options to spend money on other than food.

In the United States, the portion of our income that we spend on food is less than half what it was fifty years ago. We spent about 12 percent of our income on food in 1989, a smaller percentage than for any other industrialized country.

The message has gotten through that there are a lot of foods other than eggs on which to spend that 12 percent of our income. Egg consumption per person has gone from more than 400 per year in 1945 to about 235 per year in 1989. There has been an almost continuous drop in egg consumption for the last 45 years.

This trend was interrupted in the late 1970s when the American Egg Board promoted the positive aspects of eggs by a television, radio, and print media campaign. The years of 1978 and 1979 were the only two consecutive years after 1950 that per person egg consumption increased.

The promotional program became less aggressive in promoting eggs because of the shortage of funds. The need for assessment refunds in the 1980s became more acute as TV and radio advertising costs became inflated.

There has been good news and bad news recently on egg promotion. The good news is that an American Egg Board referendum was passed to make all assessment collections nonrefundable. This referendum, whose results were available by August 24, indicated very strong support for the national promotion and education program, with 84 percent of the voting producers favoring mandatory fee collection. Producers voting yes represented 93 percent of the egg production of voting producers.

Pennsylvania producers were also strong supporters of the national promotion program — 91 percent of the state's producers favored making assessment collections mandatory.

The marketing program would have allowed 2.5 cents per 30 dozen case of eggs to be collected to operate an egg marketing program. Fifty-seven percent of the producers voting favored the program, but it was defeated because only 43 percent of the production was held by these producers.

Had it been passed, the state program would have provided local support for the national promotion program. Let's hope the national program can do the job!

'Share The Earth' Is Heart Of Horse Plowing Contest

SCHAEFFERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — On Saturday, September 8 at 10 a.m., Pennsylvania's expert plowmen will compete in sharing the beautiful limestone soil in Lebanon County and in seeking prizes on best plowing expertise.

Pulled by buffaloes, oxen, mules, horses, humans, and other sources of power, the plowshare developed from a plain stick of wood to a hand-shaped wooden plow and then to an efficient and durable steel plowshare that turns the earth with speed and accuracy.

Plowmen will begin the competition using horses and mules, and the judges of the contest will be busy measuring, sighting, and calculating to determine the most uniform furrow.

Saturday afternoon will feature a log-pulling demonstration and the judging of the annual exhibits of local vegetables, fruits, preserves, and cakes. Al Shade will entertain.

Sunday at 12:30 p.m., marks the start of the popular horse parade, a dream for photographers. Come and see Baron Stiegel and Alexander Schaeffer, in costume, leading the parade. The horse pull follows the parade, testing the strength of the mighty Belgians and the mules.

The Rohrerstown Band plays Sunday afternoon in the pavilion and both days will feature crafts, threshing, and a 100-year-old Frick sawmill driven by Harry Bechtel's steam engine. Jim Faust of Pottstown will be making ironwork in the blacksmith shop, there will be corn meal grinding and tours of the historic Schaeffer house, the loghouse over the spring, and the dry house and the barn with its antique farm implements.

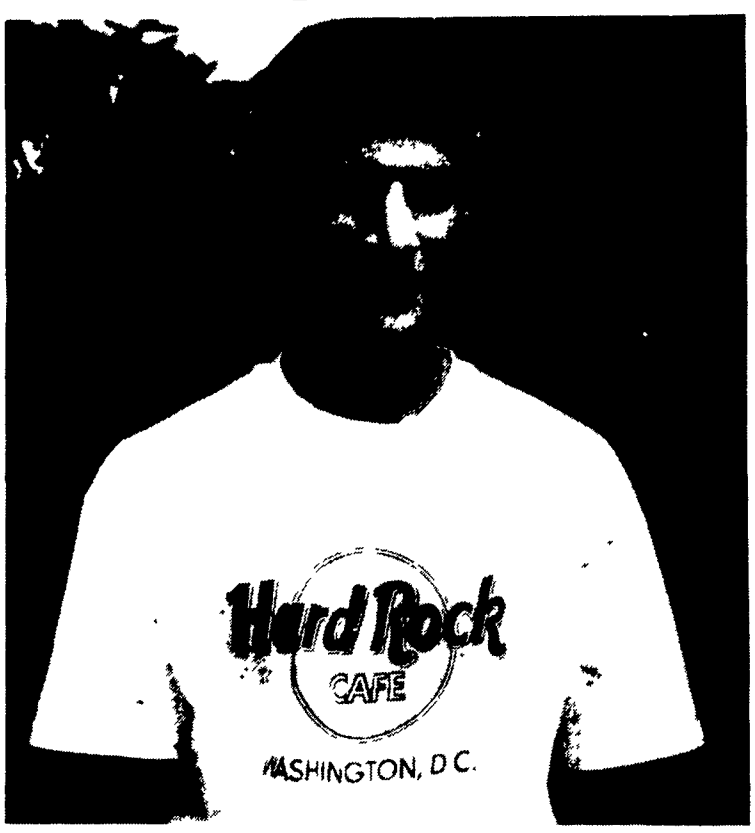
Fireplace cooking, bake oven baking, outdoor cooking demonstrations, tasting samples and a great variety of foods from the Dutch kitchen, the sausage sandwich stand, and other stands will please the visitors.

All-day cider pressing and apple butter cooking will provide interesting taste testing along with apple fritters, mint tea, and other old-time foods and drinks.

Schaefferstown is located at the junction of Routes 897 and 501, north of Lancaster. Admission is $2.50 for adults. Children under 12 are admitted free.

Schaefferstown's horse plowing contest will feature plowmen who will compete for best plowing expertise. The plowshare developed from a plain stick of wood to a hand-shaped wooden plow and then to an efficient and durable steel plowshare that turns the earth with speed and accuracy.

Cooperative Institute Proves Valuable To Youth



MARY LAEGER-HAGEMEISTER
Dauphin Co. Correspondent

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — He is a valuable asset to his community, active in school, 4-H, and church as well as the community theater. Matt Faust, of Halifax, recently attended the Pennsylvania Association of Farmers Cooperatives (PAFC) summer institute at Shippensburg University for 4-H and FFA members.

In order to attend this three-day series, Matt participated in a one-day institute meeting held in Lancaster earlier this spring. At the meeting he took a test and filled out an activity sheet. These two items were the determining factors to those eligible to attend the institute at Shippensburg.

Matt scored high on both counts. The test he could study for but the activities depended on his contributions to his community.

As a 4-H member, he is involved in dairy projects and the Exchange Club. In 1987 he went to Tioga County as part of an exchange experience and the next summer, 1988, he participated in the exchange trip to California. Both of these experiences have helped Matt to gain new insights into 4-H and other parts of the country.

Not only does he keep busy with 4-H, but Matt also helps with the lighting for the Twin Valley Players community theater. When school is in session, Matt plays his trumpet in the marching band, concert band, and jazz band. His musical talents are also used in school and church choir.

Matt contributes to the drama club by helping with the lighting for school plays and has made a commitment to not use drugs or alcohol by being a member of Stand Tall, a drug and alcohol prevention program at the Halifax High School.

Attending the PAFC Summer Institute was a real learning experience for Matt. It gave him an opportunity to discover how a variety of cooperatives work in the United States as well as other countries, including the Soviet Union. While at the institute, the participants had hands-on experience running a cooperative so that they were able to get a real flavor for the business. The cooperative that Matt participated in sold shorts, sodas, and food at the dances. They also had to put together an executive board and had membership fees.

As the first participant from Dauphin County, Matt is excited to help plan the one-day institute for Lebanon and Dauphin counties next spring to prepare others to attend the summer institute. He hopes that through further advertising in the schools and other 4-H clubs, he will generate more interest in the event. For more information on the upcoming institute, contact Mae Hostetter at (717) 921-8803.

Kennard-Dale FFA Receive Dairy Awards

FAWN GROVE (York Co.)— All of the Kennard-Dale FFA members who entered a dairy animal game in the southcentral district FFA Dairy Show at Shippensburg Fairgrounds earlier this month came home with blue ribbons.

The blue ribbons qualify the students to show their animal at the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show at the Farm Show Arena on September 24 in Harrisburg.

Mark Hushon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Hushon of R.D. 1, Delta, won a red ribbon with his Holstein intermediate yearling, his Holstein senior yearling, and his Holstein summer yearling. Mark also wn a blue fitting and showing ribbon for his efforts.

Adam Gross, son of Mr. Robert Gross, Fawn Grove R.D. 1, won a blue ribbon with his Holstein intermediate calf. Adam also won blue showing and fitting ribbons for his work.

Kimberly Griffith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Griffith of Delta R.D. 1, won a blue ribbon with her Holstein summer yearling and Holstein intermediate yearling. Griffith's summer yearling was named Holstein Reserve Junior Champion. She received showing and fitting ribbons for her efforts and was named the Grand Champion Fitter of the show. For her efforts she received a show halter from Pioneer Seed Company.

From the left Adam Gross, Kim Griffith, and Mark Hushon show the animals and the blue ribbons they won during the Southcentral Distrcit FFA Dairy Show.

Farmers Test Recycled Plastics

WILMINGTON, DE — Doug Corey is one of several farmers who helped Du Pont test pesticide jugs made of recycled plastic this summer to determine if they are as durable as those made from virgin plastic.

The jugs are made with plastic recycled from agricultural chemical containers collected by farmers and others in Washington County, Mississippi, last year. The collection was part of a pilot recycling project sponsored by federal and state agencies, the agricultural chemical industry, farm organizations, and community volunteers.

Du Pont expanded the test this summer by packaging its herbicide "Lorox" DF in the recycled jugs. Farmers from six states provided typical on-farm handling of the containers and gave their perspective on how other farmers might respond to the recycled containers.

"The jug is great," said Corey. "I really couldn't tell the difference between it and a jug made from new plastic." He feels the container recycling program is a good idea and is something that is really needed. "Eventually farmers will be forced to recycle their jugs, because there won't be any other way to dispose of them," he said.

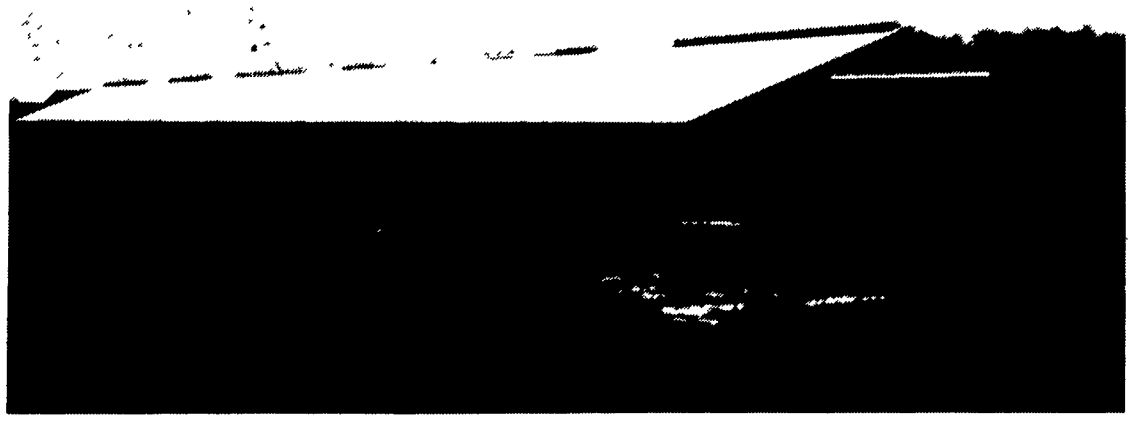
Corey grows corn, wheat, soybeans, peas, lima beans, sweet corn, and spinach. He says that, like all farmers, he is concerned about the environment and would support a container recycling program in the future. Corey was the 1988 American Soybean Association Young Leader for the state of Delaware.

Corey, who regularly uses "Lorox" DF to control weeds in his crops, handled the recycled jugs as he normally would throughout the growing season, then returned them to Du Pont scientists for further analysis. The jugs, made from a 50-50 mix of recycled and virgin plastic resin, already have passed a series of tests and meet all U.S. Department of Transportation standards for pesticide containers.

"We are searching for other feasible uses for the recycled plastic, but the best option now, both economically and environmentally, is 'closing the loop' — that is, recycling used pesticide containers into new pesticide containers," said Ralph May, senior research chemist for Du Pont's agricultural products department. "Easy handling and package disposal are an important part of how farmers and applicators can do the best job of managing the use of agricultural chemicals. That's why we're involving farmers in our hands-on research."

Field testing is the latest step in a sustained effort by Du Pont in its commitment to help the farm community solve the mounting problem of container disposal. An estimated 40 million pounds of plastic containers are used each year by U.S. farmers. Collectively, the agricultural community recognizes the need for solutions other than landfilling or burning the containers. Several other states have developed container collection and recycling programs, often with Du Pont involvement and support.

Huge Broiler House Built



This 64,000 square foot building will be able to produce more than 101,000 broilers every 6 to 7 weeks — more than 660,000 broilers or 2.9 million pounds a year. The facility was jointly designed by Northeast Agri Systems, King Construction, and PALS.

STRAUSSTOWN (Berks Co.) — Ben Reed and family have broken ground on an 80-foot wide by 800-foot long by 24-foot high single story broiler house.

This 64,000 square foot building will be able to produce more than 101,000 broilers every 6 to 7 weeks or more than 660,000 broilers or 2.9 million pounds per year.

The facility has been jointly designed by Northeast Agri Systems, Lititz, King Construction, New Holland, and PALS of Willmar, Minnesota.

The naturally ventilated building will use a system of computer-controlled, insulated ridge vents and side panels instead of side wall fans. This system uses the natural buoyancy of warm air to exhaust stale air out the ridge vent and replace it with fresh air by, at the same time, opening side panels. The farmer simply enters target temperatures and humidity and the computer does the rest.

Clair Eberly, production manager for Farmers Pride who will be contracting Ben Reed's house, said, "By not having fans, shutters and thermostats or negative pressure inletting and curtains, farmers can save on labor, repair and maintenance costs and have lower energy costs. And a computer controlled ventilation system maintains optimum air quality 24 hours a day.

The ventilation equipment will be supplied by PALS through their local distributor, Northeast Agri Systems. The house will also utilize Chore-Time's NEW H2 feeding system and SBM radiant heating.

Winners Keep Rakes/Discs Looking Good

VERNON, NY — Kuhn Farm Machinery, Inc. has announced the winners of its oldest rake disc mower contest held during the past year in the United States and Canada.

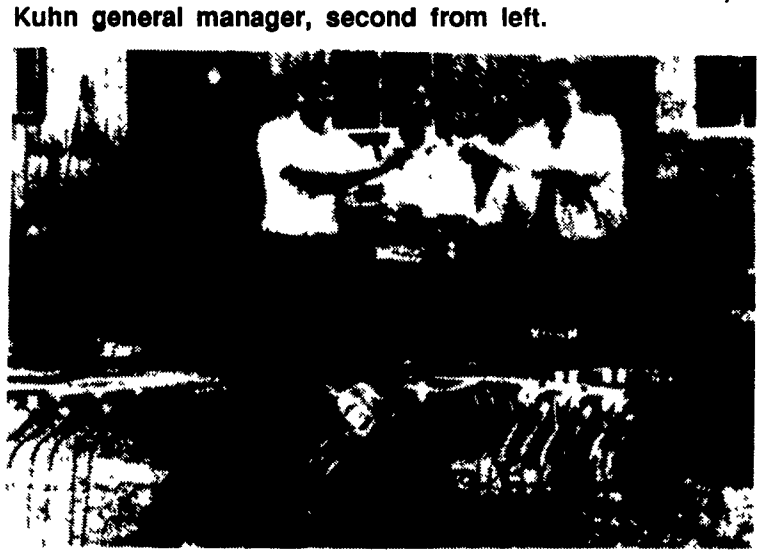
For entering their 1973 Kuhn GMD 40 disc mower, Paul and Ester Morrill of Stowe, Vermont won a brand new Kuhn GMD 66 disc mower worth over $5,000. And for submitting his McCormick/Deering dump rake manufactured circa 1860, Claude Roderigues of Beauceville, Quebec was presented with a new $2,500 GA 300 GT rake from Kuhn Farm Machinery as well.

Both the disc mower and the rake are still in good working order, a stipulation placed on the contest's entries. Kuhn has plans to save both the Morrill's disc mower and the Rodrigues' dump rake for the company's historic archives.

The Morrils bought their Kuhn GMD 40 disc mower for $250 at a farm auction in 1981. That same mower had cut the Morrill's entire 70-acre hay crop twice a year for nine years.

Claude Roderigues claims his ancestor, Jules Rodrigues, purchased their single horse drawn dump rake in 1860. The rake was last officially used on his farm in 1955 and has been stored inside ever since for its protection. The Rodrigues family has been tilling about 175 acres of their 300-acre dairy farm since 1759 (231 years). Pictures of their family date back to the 18th century and a plaque from the Quebec government confirms the age of the farm.

The Morrill family of Stowe, Vermont, recently won Kuhn Farm Machinery's oldest disc mower contest for entering their 1973 Kuhn GMD 40 model. They were prsented with a brand new Kuhn GMD 66 disc mower from Tim Harman, Kuhn general manager, second from left.



The Rodgrigues family of Beauceville, Quebec, won Kuhn Farm Machinery's oldest rake contest for entering their 130-year-old McCormick/Deering dump rake. They were presented with a brand new Kuhn GA 300 GT rake from Tim Harman, Kuhn general manager, right.

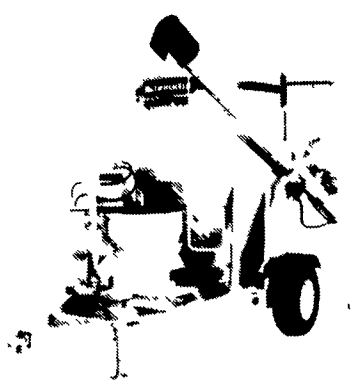
Automatic Debuts Roller-Mixers

PENDER, NE — The new roller-mixer models from Automatic Equipment Mfg. Co. combine precision feed processing capabilities with high mixing capacity.

The RollMix 9115 has a 150-bushel mixing tank and takes only 10 minutes to produce 150 bushels of feed. The RollMix 9110 has a 100-bushel mixing tank. Both are portable units, designed to service a wide range of livestock feeding operations.

The new RollMix models' commercial-grade roller mill makes it possible to accurately size grain particles for optimum digestion by livestock or poultry. Operating at different speeds using Automatic's "one-fast-roll" principle, the rolls cut grain instead of crushing. This process greatly reduces production of ultrafine "flour" particles which can decrease palatability and cause digestive problems in hogs and cattle.

Tractors as small as 80-hp can be used to operate the RollMix 9115, while the RollMix 9110 requires a minimu of 50-hp. Other features for both models include:



The RollMix 9115 roller-mixer has a 150-bushel mixing tank and takes only 10 minutes to produce 150 bushels of feed. The RollMix 9110 has a 100-bushel mixing tank.

- Single lever control on roller mill allows quick adjustment for different grain sizes.
- Magnet grate in mill hopper and spring-loaded rolls prevent damage from tramp metal and other foreign objects.
- Loading auger is spring-assisted for easy handling. It operates hydraulically with infinite speed control.
- Discharge auger has 8-inch diameter and measures 12-feet in length with a 6-foot extension. Mechanical or optional hydraulic lift/swing is available. Swing arc is 280°.
- The mixer has 4 large windows at different bushel levels, as well as a ladder and access door.
- Supplement hopper measures 20" x 20" and has a magnet that holds the lid out of the way for easy addition of premix and protein.

Both RollMix models come with a sloped, weather-tight cover. A digital scale for precise ration control is optional.

Biological Products Enter Mainstream

LINCOLN, NE — With increasing environmental awareness and greater public insistence on sustainable agriculture practices, natural pest control products are gaining new respect from farmers.

Speaking at the National Sustainable Agriculture and Natural Resources Conference here, Dr. Lou Hargett of Sandoz Crop Protection Corporation said that environmental foresight and intensive research during the past 20 years is now producing more effective, environmentally sound biological products.

"The biological revolution of the 1970s, which followed the 1960s' environmental movement, laid the groundwork for gaining a greater understanding of biology and biological processes," said Hargett, the company's director of product development. "Now we can apply the valuable tools of genetic engineering and biotechnology to develop products that will be useful by a larger number of growers, tailored to fit the environmental needs of the 1990s."

Sandoz Crop Protection, a pioneer in the development and commercialization of biological insecticides, is a long-time producer of environmentally sound chemical products to control disease, weed, and insect pests in crops.

Hargett said these improved biological tools will play an increasing role on farms to supplement chemical crop protection agents that support agricultural production, but doesn't see them replacing modern agrichemicals.

"While I'm a firm believer in biologicals, I am equally realistic about the continuing need for environmentally sound, highly effective chemical or biochemical products," Hargett said. "The use of chemical crop protection will be important to many American farmers and their ultimate customers, the consuming public, for years to come."

Auction Business Skyrockets

CHELTENHAM, MD — Sales volume for July was triple that of last year at the Southern Maryland Regional Farmers' Market's Wholesale Produce Auctions, according to market master Bruce Bagley.

The auction moved to a three-day sale schedule in early July and had 12 sales days this July compared to only four in 1989. Heavy volume of sweet corn, tomatoes, and cantaloupes helped push up sales volume some 319 percent over July 1989.

Sales would have been even higher, market officials said, if heavier supplies of local watermelons had been available. The market opened earlier this year with the first sale being held on June 8 and started three-days per week sales the week ending July 13.

So far, 21 different types of vegetables, eight types of fruit, and five flower and live plant items have been sold this season.

A total of 145 buyers has registered so far at the market as have 135 farmer/sellers.

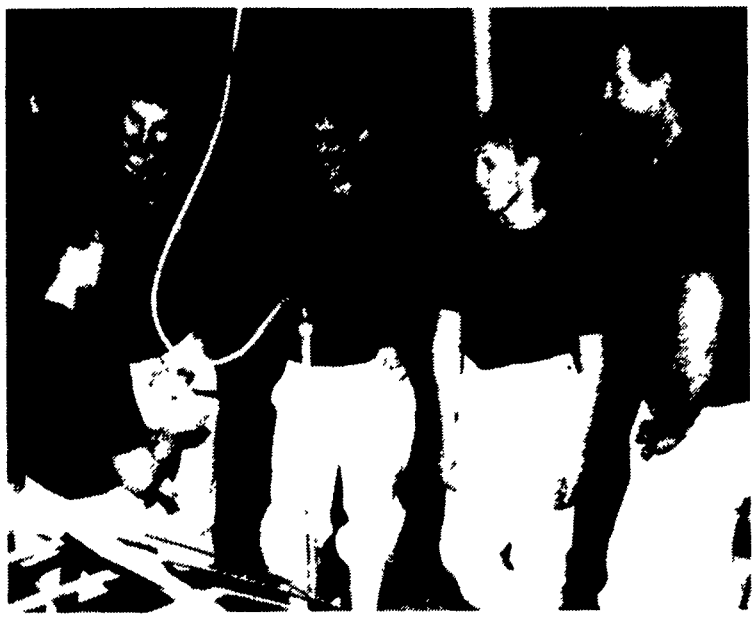
DEKALB Offers Swine Scholarship

DEKALB, IL — DEKALB Swine Breeders is offering 12 full scholarships to students who qualify for a new swine management education program developed with Seward County. (Kansas) Community College, the company announced recently.

The two-year program, leading to an associate's degree in applied science in swine management, includes coursework at the community college and on-the-job experience at nearby DEKALB Swine facilities. DEKALB Swine will provide tuition, room and board, and books to students who qualify.

"The objective is to prepare students for careers in modern swine production," said Roy Roage, president of DEKALB Swine Breeders, Inc. "The combination of classroom instruction and actual production experience is an excellent way to prepare them, especially as swine production becomes more and more sophisticated. Hands-on experience is an important part of the education process, and we're pleased to offer our facilities as a training ground."

Students will be exposed to all phases of swine production at DEKALB's foundation farms near Plains, Kansas and Beaver, Oklahoma, where the company produces breeding stock for commercial hog producers, Poage said.



Work-studies at DEKALB's facilities include first-hand experience with all phases of swine production.

"This program is a cooperative effort between business and education to provide skilled employees for the swine industry," said Dr. Ted Wischropp, president of Seward County Community College in Liberal, Kansas. "The current demand for training and experience in swine production gives our students the opportunity to gain valuable practical knowledge and skills in addition to a degree."

Students seeking more information are asked to contact Lisa Edwards, operations manager, DEKALB Swine Breeders, Inc., RR 1 Jayhawk Road, Plains, KS 67869, (316) 563-7226 or James Hall, agriculture coordinator, Seward County Community College, Box 1137, Liberal, KS 67901, (316) 624-1951.

Subtiller Fights Compaction

PEORIA, IL — To help farmers deal with compaction, the new Yetter 3 pt. hitch subtiller is built for demanding soil conditions.

Leg assemblies are fully adjustable for various spacings. When equipped with lift wings, the subtiller will shatter the entire soil profile across the width of the unit. With 2" wide points, the legs reach down to loosen the soil between rows only. Adjustable depth gauge wheels help maintain operating depths. Optional 20" trash residue cutting coulters can be added for one-pass operation.

The subtiller breaks up the plow pan with minimum surface disturbance and reduces the bulk density of the soil. The result is better aeration along with improved water penetration and drainage.

Other benefits include improved nutrient uptake, optimum root growth, and faster, more uniform emergence and plant growth. Benefits of the new subtiller are realized with no-till or mini-till operations.

For futher information, contact Yetter Mfg. Co., Colchester, IL 62326-0358, (800)447-5777 outside Illinois (800) 325-7165 in Illinois.

Farm Organizations Oppose Energy Tax

WASHINGTON, DC — Consumers and farmers would be severely affected if Congress enacts a broad-based energy tax, according to 29 farm organizations representing several million American farmers.

In a letter sent to all 535 members of Congress, numerous farm organizations representing the many facets of agricultural production made clear that consumers and farmers will be first and hardest hit if fuel taxes are increased or a broad-based energy tax is implemented.

"Our farmers produce for a highly competitive world market," said Gary D. Myers, president of The Fertilizer Institute. "It is unbelievable to hear that members of our own Congress would consider handicapping agriculture now, when the world market is so sensitive due to the turmoil in the Middle East."

Showing that an energy tax imposed throughout the food production system would result in fewer American farmers, less agricultural production, decreased agricultural exports, and higher food prices for American consumers, the letter points to the critical relationship between the agricultural sector and energy inputs.

"We have seen how dependence upon an oil supply from abroad has put this country in an economically unstable situation," said Myers in reference to the situation in the Middle East. "A tax on energy used by our food production industry could endanger international relations even further."

Bradford County Showcases Sheep, Spinning At Fair

VERNON HOCKENBERRY
New York Correspondent

TROY, N.Y.— It is Sheep and Wool Day at the Troy Fair, while many other activities are in progress. But the sheep and lamb activities are the highlight of the day.

Rich and Geoff Powell of Rome exhibited the grand champion, a Hampshire. Rich, 17, and Geoff, 13, have been showing sheep since they were five years old. When asked if they were making any money with sheep, they replied, "A little."

Their farm operation includes about 200 sheep, with each owner having a different breed. Rich has Rambouiletts, with a couple of Hampshires. Also on this farm are Dorsets, Shropshires, and Montdales.

What do they look for in a market lamb? "We look for length of loin, muscling, and thickness of loins," said Rich, a senior at Northeast Bradford.

Cecily Roe, a school librarian from Tunkhannock, has been at spinning for eight years. "I got into it because I like to knit. I knit continuously, my parents had sheep, and I started spinning from that wool." Roe doesn't sell her wares as she supplies her family with sweaters, vests, hats, mittens, and an occasional afghan as fast as she can make them.

Roe talked about the different types of spinning wheels in use. "All the wheels began as flax wheels and the wool spinners started using them. I'm spinning on a Saxony, a reproduction of a wheel used over 200 years ago in New England. On the Saxony, the wheel and spinning apparatus are in the horizontal position. Another wheel is the Castle, a Scandinavian wheel, which has the spinning apparatus in the vertical position. Another is the Louet, which has the apparatus toward the front like penguin's feet."

Roe mentioned her sources of wool. "I buy some from members of my own guild, and buy it here at the fair. I've spun cat hair, dog hair, dust bunnies, and right now I'm spinning buffalo hair.

"Some spinning wheels you turn with one foot and some with both feet alternately. I am convinced that the colonial women wore long dresses, not for modesty, but to hide the fact that one leg was much more muscular than the other, because of so much time on the single-pedal wheel."

Roe said the word "spinster" was derived from the fact that it took so much time to do the spin ning, that one who had the time to do it did the spinning. Thus the labor usually fell to an unmarried member of the family.

Cindy Soth was at the fair with her border collies. Her main interest is the sheep, but Cindy said, "You can't do without the border collies if you want to be efficient in sheep production. They are worth their weight in gold, as far as herding and moving sheep. Anybody who is trying to do things efficiently in the livestock business needs a good stock dog. They work in many unusual situations and save you a lot of effort.

"We work on farms all over the East Coast, from the deep South up to New York. We do all sorts of things related to sheep, such as shearing, foot trimming, hauling, trading, buying and selling lambs and wool. We take the dogs from farm to farm and many times we use them to help pen the sheep."

Soth is with Sheep Spectrum Service, Inc. "This is a new idea in this country in that we do complete flock management, on certain farms. This includes putting lambing shepherds out, worming, crutching, vaccinating, etc. when it is time to do it. We are trying to make the producer aware that we can be cheaper than hiring a full-time man or a veterinarian."

Soth spoke about the size of herd needed to make this service profitable. "We work with anywhere from 1 to 3,000 sheep. It depends on the marketing program." According to Soth, if the work includes marketing wool to hand spinners, "it will pay to have us come in and shear. Our shearing prices are competitive and we are usually cheaper on vet-type services."

Does The Carcass Breed Fit?

ENGLEWOOD, CO — With three years of record growth and current status as the fifth largest beef breed in the U.S., the Limousin breed surprised some industry observers with a recent type task force meeting which invited critique from leaders across the beef industry.

The North American Limousin Foundation (NALF) asked leaders from the Limousin breed, seedstock producers from other breeds, commercial producers, feedlot operators and animal scientists to offer their perceptions about the breed and the breed's place in the total industry.

"Efficiency has been and always will be the name of the game," said Dr. Wayne Vanderwert, NALF's executive vice president. "No matter how good things are, improvements can be made. The future will not allow the inefficiencies which have defined the beef industry in the past."

The scope of the three-day meeting held at South Dakota State University and the results of that meeting will set the stage for a breed-wide symposium later this year.

"For the record growth of the breed, there has been a growing feeling among the breeders that the time has come to examine Limousin from end to end, examine the breed's strong points and target ways to improve the breed's ability to serve the commercial industry," said Vanderwert. He believes such an examination is vital, given the growing competition between breeds and the industry barometers, which suggest breed consolidation has already begun.

According to Vanderwert, specific recommendations made at the meeting will not be released until the breed-wide symposium to be held November 30 - December 2 at Kansas State University. At that time, it will be up to Limousin breeders to decide whether or not the recommendations merit their attention.

"It has never been and never will be the right or the responsibility of the breed association to tell its breeders what to do or what type of cattle to produce," said Vanderwert. "At the same time, the association does have a responsibility to provide its members with the most comprehensive data available to make decisions."

Hog Slat Opens New Line

NEWTON GROVE, NC — Hog Slat, Inc. opened its new electrostatic, powder-coated, paint line on August 6, 1990.

The paint system was the final stage of a 12-month capital expansion that increased the plant facilities by 25,000 square feet.

The new line increases the Newton Grove plant's capabilities for steel hog equipment by 200 percent, permitting the company to equip more than 100,000 sows annually. The company has also added 60 new employees to satisfy growing demand for its products in the Midwest and foreign markets.

Livestock Notes

Insect Problems

Each year during late spring and early summer, animal livestock start to become burdened by a large population of external parasites. These parasites come in the form of flies, lice, mites, ticks and fleas - to name a few. These parasites can cause stress on the livestock, thereby causing milk, meat and egg production to drop. They not only annoy animals, but can carry organisms which may lead to disease problems. One of the most prominent organisms is carried by the Face Fly (Moraxella boris), a bacteria which causes pink eye.

An early start on parasite control is therefore necessary to keep down stress and disease spread. Many livestock pesticides are formulated as wettable powders, ready mixed pour-ons, spot-ons, emulsifiable concentrates, smears, feed additives, dusts, aerosols and baits. Only those pesticides made specifically for animals should be used. Other formulations of the same material may be dangerous to the animal and should be avoided.

The key to insect pest control is to prepare now for the coming pest season. The Bulletin 256, "Controlling Insects and Mites of Livestock and Other Animals," is a very good guide for use on pest prevention strategy. Bulletin 256 is available on request.

Diarrhea In Goats

Diarrheal diseases in goats are prevalent, especially in newborn kids. The causative agents of diarrhea in goats have been reported as varying with the age of the kid. Bacterial agents (E. coli Salmonella species) are most common from birth to 4 weeks of age, parasites (intestinal helminths, coccidiosis) predominate from 4 to 12 weeks of age, and a mixture of two, plus nutritional factors, exist in animals over 12 weeks of age. Viral organisms, protozoa, misuse of therapeutic drugs, and toxicities are also capable of producing diarrhea episodes.

The most immediate problem in an animal suffering from diarrhea is loss of body fluids and electrolytes via the feces. When the rate of fluid loss exceeds the rate of replacement through milk or milk replacer, dehydration ensues. When the net fluid loss reaches 4 or 5 percent of the total body weight, dehydration becomes significant.

In a newborn kid, the first sign of trouble is often refusal to drink all its milk. This, concurrent with fever and/or previous history of diarrhea problems on a farm, are enough to warrant the initiation of therapy, even if diarrhea has not begun. Milk feeding should be discontinued, and the following formula substituted to provide a source of energy, protein, fluids, and electrolytes:

1 can (10½ ounces) of beef consomme
1 package of fruit pectin (2 ounces)
2 level teaspoons of Lite salt
3 level teaspoons (1 T) baking soda
Add warm water to make 2 quarts

Commercial preparations (Life-Guard by Norden Labs or Biolyte by Upjohn) are also good. Three or four times a day, a 10-pound kid should receive 6 to 8 ounces orally. Adjust the amount according to kid weight and label recommendations. Additionally, antibiotic therapy may be necessary. When a significant improvement in well being is not noticed, or signs of diarrhea or fever persist, a veterinarian should be consulted.

Training Session Part Of Twilight Meeting

SUNBURY (Northumberland Co.) — The Northumberland County Conservation District and Penn State Cooperative Extension will sponsor a twilight meeting on Wednesday, September 5 from 7 p.m. - 9:20 p.m.

The meeting will be held at the Henry Forman farm, one mile east of Turbotville. Signs will be posted to the farm from Route 54.

The meeting has been approved by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture as an update training session for pesticide certification renewal for private applicators. Private applicators will receive two credits (1 core and 1 category) toward certification renewal.

Steve Ferrara, Dupont company, will speak on post-emergence grass control in corn. Ken Reisinger of the Division of rivers and Wetlands Conservation, DER, will discuss the proposed new state regulations on wetlands and their affect on agriculture.

County agents Norman Conrad and Vernon Brose will discuss chemical carryover problems from herbicides and the safe handling, use, and disposal, of farm chemicals. George Phillips of the conservation district staff will present a slide program on Chesapeake Bay projects and the results of no-till and nutrient management demonstration plots.

Robotic Calf Feeder Threatens To Make Calf Hutches Obsolete

NEWARK, Calif.— Calf hutches obsolete! You must think I'm off my rocker, because to most dairy people, calf hutches are the ultimate, the last word in calf raising, and have been for the past 20 years.

I, too, have been at the forefront, singing their praises, from the first time I saw them in the late 1950's. It was a wintry day on a Utah dairy farm in deep snow, and the calves were healthy, happy and growing well.

Certainly calf hutches reduced calf mortality to almost nothing and were a big step forward compared to the traditional calf barns, even the fancy ones equipped with ventilation, bedding and temperature regulation.

The calves were out in nature; no investment was needed for ventilators, temperature regulators and expensive barn structures. The calves became hardy fast, out there in nature, and they were perfectly sheltered inside their hutches with all the natural temperature and air regulation needed for healthy, happy calves. And they paid off, too. There were no more fatal respiratory sicknesses, which had skyrocketed calf mortality to over 20%.

On a tour of big dairy farms in Georgia, I saw over 300 calf hutches on one farm. What a sight! And solid testimony for their superior value.

Out in California on a commercial dairy goat farm, I again saw rows and rows of hutches, this time called "kid" hutches, working just as well as they did for calves.

There are, however, at least two disadvantages to calf hutches: their outdoor location and the solitary one-calf-per-hutch aspect.

As healthy as it is for calves to be in the open and given that they can go inside the hutches during inclement weather, the caretaker assigned to feed and care for the calves must twice daily battle the vagaries of weather, rain, snow and storm when it's feeding time. One cannot wait until the storm is over and then feed. Calves require punctuality and regularity of feeding to maintain their health. The caretaker gets wet, cold and disgruntled, wishing hutches were never invented.

Calves in hutches are isolated in strict solitary confinement, one calf per hutch, because experience has taught that calves develop the bad habit of sucking on other calves' ears, tails, navels, etc. If they are given the opportunity to associate with other calves, this bad habit can persist into adult life and to sucking each other's udders.

Thus the social life of calves is strictly separated by tight-mesh fences surrounding each individual calf hutch. This separation also eliminates the development of hair balls, which are found blocking calves' digestive tracts when calves have a chance to associate with each other and groom and lick each other's hair. These hair balls can be bigger than a baseball and just as hard.

The proverbial fences between hutches should make happy calf neighbors. Certainly their health is protected from bad habits. But enter the animal welfare activists; solitary calf life is against their beliefs of nature and social rights of calves!

Well, why argue? There is a solution, a good one, for these two concerns, because we are now in the computer and robot age. University of Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station farm superintendent Jim Wolfer learned on a visit to Westfalia Milking Machine Company in Germany that they also make a calf-nursing robot, which seems very effective, though it is not yet found in the United States.

I imported a unit to experiment with because I had already done much research with a then-called Nursette machine, which had worked fairly well as a machine, at least. It had one nipple for 12 to 20 calves per pen, but no computer brain. Calves quickly learned to suck on it again and again, even to overfeed, which resulted in diarrhea. Competition for feed also kept the more timid and weaker calves away.

Now the big difference of the Westfalia nursing robot is that it has a computer brain, which prevents any dominant calf from getting more than its deserved ration of milk. Each calf wears an electronic identifier around its neck to activate the computer on contact. It either releases a pound of milk or not, depending how long ago the calf has sucked at the robot.

No more overfeeding and diarrhea. And instead of 2 meals in 24 hours, the calf gets its milk ration now in smaller more numerous feedings: 6 meals in 24 hours. Labor-wise, this would not be workable, but for the robot this is no problem, day or night.

And nobody has to brave the stormy, rainy, snowy weather anymore, because the calves feed themselves in a covered, but open, shed. The calves are still out in nature and are hardy and healthy and it's less labor-intensive. Caretakers operate the computer program once a week and check the consumption data printouts in the office. They need to clean the robot only once a day, a small chore when the weather suits.

Another benefit of the new nursing robot is that one nipple is good for 20 to 25 calves and 2 nipples can be mounted on each robot, which can dispense milk powder, one or two types, reconstituted in warm water, or real milk.

Animal welfare people will be happy to see calves now socializing with each other from day one of their lives without any bad side effects.

Mertz Elected NACTA President

DOYLESTOWN (Bucks Co.)— Dr. John Mertz, vice president academic affairs at Delaware Valley College (DVC), is the new president of the National Association of Colleges and Teachers of Agriculture (NACTA).

Mertz was elected on June 19, 1990, to a one-year term at NACTA's annual meeting held at SUNY-Morrisville College in Morrisville, NY.

Mertz, a 1962 graduate of Delaware Valley College, holds a Ph.D. from the University of Illinois. He joined the faculty of DVC in 1967 where he has been chairman of the ornamental horticulture department (1975-1981); assistant dean of academic affairs (1980-81); associate dean of academic affairs (1981-83); acting dean of academic affairs (1984); and dean of academic affairs (1984-88). He was named vice president academic affairs in 1988. Mertz and his family live in Pipersville.

Mertz has been active in NACTA since 1981, having been vice president, eastern regional director and a committee chairman. The 1,200-member organization, formed in 1955, is comprised of teaching professionals in agriculture higher education, dedicated to the ongoing improvement of the quality of agriculture teaching in colleges and universities.

NACTA operates within five regions -- four in the United States and one in Canada. Delaware Valley College hosted the annual meeting in 1982. In addition to its focus on the improvement of agriculture teaching, NACTA is the parent sponsor of Delta Tau Alpha, the national agricultural honorary society for college undergraduates. Mertz will be attending the DTA annual conference in Texas to make a presentation to the undergraduates as the president of NACTA.

Delaware Valley College faculty members have been recognized by NACTA and have received the NACTA Teacher Fellow Award in the past. They include Craig Hill, also the NACTA Pennsylvania state coordinator; David Blumenfield; and Julian Prundenau. Both Hill and Prundenau have also received Regional Outstanding Teacher awards for the eastern region of NACTA.

Massey-Ferguson Adds Cab To Line

DES MOINES, Iowa — Continuing its commitment to operator comfort, convenience, and safety, Massey-Ferguson has introduced the new HiLine cab for its popular 60 to 90 horsepower M-F 300 Series tractors.

The two-door cab offers the convenience and safety of either right or left-hand entry, and the flat floor makes it easy to move about.

Improvements in the new comfort-engineered cab include a new fresh-air ventilation system, air conditioning system, a new roof design that gives easy access to the fresh-air filter, wider rear fenders with longer fender extensions, new design rear and front work lights, and anti-slip step design.

The unique fresh air ventilation system includes a filtered air blower with adjustable vents mounted in the roof. By integrating this with a warm air system located in the lower portion of the cab, warm air can be directed to the feet while a refreshing stream of cool air is directed to the head and upper body. The result is a comfortable, relaxing environment for maximum operator productivity.

The HiLine cab air conditioning provides needed comfort when operating in hot weather. Over-the-rear-tire fenders three inches wide with five inch long extensions prevent mud and water from being thrown onto the rear of the cab. Angled steps with anti-slip edges make entry into the cab easier and safer. Two rear work lights, adjustable for vertical and lateral positioning and two fully adjustable front work lights make it possible to handle any work situation. A restyled console offers a neat appearance and excellent forward visibility.

The HiLine cab is available for the following Massey-Ferguson tractors: M-F 375 (60 hp), M-F

GOOD DEALS from Good Dealers

John Deere Caster/Action™ MFWD
Tightest turns in narrow rows

Stay on track and stay off the crop with a John Deere 105- to 200-hp tractor with Caster/Action™ MFWD. No other front-wheel-drive system can match it. The front wheels lean into turns to reduce turning radius and wheel slippage—even in narrow row settings. See your John Deere dealer for a test drive of this unique, narrow-turning tractor.

Craig Walton displays a little of the technique that earned him both the title of honorary group showman of the Cumberland County 4-H Roundup and a rotating plaque. Holding the plaque is Calvin Smith who represents Cumbierand Valley Cooperative. In addition to the showmanship award, Walton also received a Lee Davidson Memorial Award, sponsored by the Blue Mountain 4-H Club.

Craig Walton holds the halter of the grand champion Holstein of the Cumberland County 4-h Roundup while he receives the trophy and a handshake of congratulations from Mark Naugle.

Swine Field Day Offers Production Tips

COLLEGE PARK, MD — Want to stay on the cutting edge of swine testing? Then plan to attend the 1990 Swine Field Day on Saturday, September 8, at the Central Maryland Research and Education Center's Swine Facility in Howard County.

Producing and using tested breeding stock is rapidly becoming a necessity for making a profit in the swine business. This year's Swine Field Day focuses on the facility's swine testing program in conjunction with the Maryland Pork Producer Association's summer boar test. The field day program is designed to show you how the testing system works, helps improve your profits, and provides you with the opportunity to conveniently purchase tested boars.

Registration begins at 9:30 a.m. The $3 registration fee ($4 at the door) includes a pork barbecue sandwich lunch.

Following registration, Dr. Tom Hartsock, an extension livestock specialist, will discuss "Testing Our Way to Better Pork and Bigger Profits."

Dr. Jerry DeBarthe, also a swine specialist from the University of Maryland, will discuss "Using the Numbers' To Help Pick Your Herd Boars - The Indexing Formula." Before breaking for lunch, Hartsock will lead the final morning session, "Does Quality Run in the Family? A look at the Carcass Data of the Tested Boars' Littermates."

Following lunch, Mike Cherchuck of Plus Ultrasound Services will demonstrate "Realtime Ultrasound" on live hogs to measure loin eye and backfat. Finally, at 2 p.m., a small group of boars (7-9) from the MPPA test station will be offered for sale by auction There will be informal tours, discussions, and demonstrations following the boar sale.

Additional information and copies of the program can be obtained by calling your local county extension office The Central Maryland Research and Education Center's Swine Facility is located at 4241 Folly Quarter road, west of Ellicott City and northeast of Clarksville.

THE VALUE OF PELLETED DAIRY FEEDS

Pelleted grain & concentrate products for dairy cows are formulated to provide feeds that help cows set & produce more. Benefits of pelleting these feeds may be listed as: a) Prevention of sorting by the animal. b) Prevention of ingredient separation during transport or when handling. c) Increased bulk density of the feed which allows them to eat more total feed in a shorter period of time. d) Improved handling characteristics of the feed, particularly in parlor situations. And, e) reduced dustiness.

Many dairymen, & other feeders, resist feeding pelleted products because they are unsure of what are in them. State & federal laws, however, along with frequent inspections by government representatives, assure that tag guarantees & ingredient specifications are met. These laws specify penalties for any feed manufacturer that does not comply with the laws. Correct ingredient content & amounts are checked by laboratory examination.

Only ingredients listed on the tag must be in the feed and nothing can be in the feed that should not be there --- it's the law.

Dairymen's Double Dip Feature This Week...Unique!

PURIDINE™

(Patent pending)

- No other product available can be used for both teat dipping and udder washing.
- One percent iodophor, highly effective against spread of organisms which may cause mastitits.
- Controlled viscosity provides better control of mastitis-producing organisms.
- Emollients help keep teats soft, reduce chapping and irritation.
- Controlled pH (4.0 to 4.4) helps prevent irritation.
- Convenient sizes for either small or large herds.
- 2-2½ , 15, 30 gallon sizes.

MAKE MONEY NOW WITH PURIDINE

Has summer moisture and mud raised your Somatic Cell Counts? If so remember that the higher the price of milk the more it pays to defeat Cell Count.

A cell count of 400,000 or a linear score of 5 can cost a cow 1200 lbs. of milk per lactation. At $15.00 milk this will cost you $180.00 per cow while Puridine only costs 2-3¢ per day to use.

Consider These Benefits

- ✔ Predip and post dip- dilute 3/1 to make a .25% product lowest cost in the industry
- ✔ Post dip only- use straight
- ✔ Best cling
- ✔ Iodine is the strongest germ killer on the market
